

Dear friends,

This Sunday we celebrate Pentecost and the gift of the Holy Spirit in our lives. As has become our custom, I encourage you all to wear red, orange or yellow if possible! Admittedly the hardest part of the Trinity to explain, the Holy Spirit is available to us all. Barbara Brown Taylor says there are some fine teachings on the Spirit but then writes: "I hope none of you are satisfied with it. I hope none of you rests until you have felt the Holy Spirit blow through your own life, rearranging things, opening things up and maybe even setting your heads on fire." Amen sister! Please read Acts 2:1-4 and Genesis 11:1-9 to prepare for worship.

I could not let this day pass without also reminding us that it is the 75th anniversary of D Day! My father sent a copy of FDR's prayer from that day with his own comments attached, which I share with you now. "I hope you will take time to thank God for the men and women of America's Greatest Generation, those who sacrificed so much to liberate first Europe, then the Pacific islands and, through their bravery, preserved for all of us the freedoms we enjoy today. Without their sacrifices, it would undoubtedly be a world much different from the world in which we live today." Amen Daddy!

Blessings,

Julie
