Introduction

A. Professionalism is required in the practice of law, but how do you define it?

Many define it as having good character and competence.

Competence is something that can be achieved by hard work.

Character is something else.

Traits commonly thought of that define good character are:

- 1) Trustworthiness
- 2) Respect
- 3) Responsibility
- 4) Fairness
- 5) Caring
- 6) Citizenship

As the famous basketball coach John Wooden once said, “Be more concerned with your character than your reputation, because character is what you really are, while reputation is merely what others think you are.”

But think about it this way, your reputation flows from your character.

Good character makes a good reputation.

Professionalism includes both competence and character.

Today we are going to discuss how our court functions while protecting

- 1) Our employees;
- 2) Our consumers;
- 3) Our and your work product; and
- 4) Everyone’s health.

Remember that all Rules of Professional Conduct are important, but these are especially important at this time:

- 1) 1.1 Competence
- 2) 1.3 Diligence
- 3) 1.4 Communication
- 4) 3.1 Meritorious Claims and Contentions
- 5) 3.2 Expediting Litigation
- 6) 3.3 Fairness to Opposing Party and Counsel
