9 B. Receipts treated as accruing after the right of the first income beneficiary
10 to receive income from the property arises, are income if they otherwise are income 11 under the provisions of this Sub-part Subpart. Receipts treated as accruing at an 12 earlier time are principal.

13 Revision Comments - 2020

14 This revision is consistent with prior law but expands the law to address
15 receipts from juridical persons other than corporations. According to general 16 principles of civil law, "[a] juridical person is an entity to which the law attributes
17 personality, such as a corporation or a partnership." Civil Code Article 24.

18 §2147. Apportionment of receipts when right to income ceases

19 Upon the termination of an income interest, the income beneficiary whose 20 interest is terminated, (for his heirs, legatees, or assignees), is entitled to receive any 21 required distributions of or from the following:

22 (1) Income paid to the trustee but undistributed on the date of termination;
23 (2) Income due but not paid to the trustee on the date of termination;_
24 (3) Income in the form of periodic payments subject to daily accrual, other 25 than ~~corporate distributions to stockholders~~ periodic payments on account of an 26 interest in a juridical person, not due on the date of termination, accrued from day 27 to day; but accrued prior to the date of termination.

28 (4) Corporate distributions to stockholders Distributions on account of an 29 interest in a juridical person that are allocated to income under R.S. 9:2149 and that 30 are paid as income after the termination of the interest if the date for determination
31 of stockholders of record those entitled to distribution is a date before the termination

1 of the interest, or, in the event no date is fixed, if the date of declaration of the 2 distribution by the corporation juridical person is a date before termination of the 3 interest.

4 Revision Comments - 2020

5 This revision is consistent with prior law but expands the law to address
6 receipts from juridical persons other than corporations. See Civil Code Article 24.

7 §2148. Succession receipts and expenses

8 Succession receipts shall be credited and succession expenditures expenses
9 shall be charged allocated to a legacy in trust in accordance with the laws regulating 10 donations mortis causa what is reasonable and equitable in view of the interests of 11 those entitled to income as well as of those entitled to principal.

12 Revision Comments - 2020

13 (a) This revision changes the law by no longer deferring to the Civil Code
14 regarding the allocation of receipts and expenses for a legacy in trust.

15 (b) In many cases, information from a succession representative may be 16 helpful to a trustee in making an appropriate allocation between income and principal 17 beneficiaries. In other cases, however, it may be very difficult for a trustee to 18 reconstruct the nature of the expense allocated to the legacy during the succession 19 administration, thus making it impossible for the trustee to reliably allocate the 20 expense within the trust between the income and principal beneficiaries. This 21 provision attempts to provide the trustee with flexibility in allocating receipts and 22 expenses and at the same time achieve consistency with the rules on successions and 23 other provisions of the Louisiana Trust Code. See, e.g., Civil Code Article 1426 and 24 R.S. 9:2151, 2152(A)(4), 2153(A), and 2154(A).

25 (c) The Comments that accompanied the 1964 enactment of this provision,
26 which are superseded by the 2020 Revision Comments, appear in Acts 1964, No.
27 338.

28 §2149. Corporate distributions Receipts from interests in juridical persons

29 A. Corporate distributions of shares of the distributing corporation, including 30 distributions in the form of a stock split or stock dividend, are principal. A right to 31 subscribe to shares or other securities issued by the distributing corporation accruing 32 to stockholders on account of their stock ownership and the proceeds of any sale of 33 the right are principal.

34 B. Except to the extent that the corporation indicates that some part of a 35 corporate distribution is a settlement of preferred or guaranteed dividends accrued

1 since the trustee became a stockholder or is in lieu of an ordinary cash dividend, a 2 corporate distribution is principal if the distribution is pursuant to:

3 (1) A call of shares;
4 (2) A merger, consolidation, reorganization, or other plan by which assets
5 of the corporation are acquired by another corporation; or 6 (3) A total or partial liquidation of the corporation, including any distribution 7 that the corporation indicates is a distribution in total or partial liquidation, or any 8 distribution of assets, other than cash, pursuant to a court decree or final 9 administrative order by a government agency ordering distribution of the particular 10 assets.

11 C. Distributions made from ordinary income by a regulated investment 12 company or by a trust qualifying and electing to be taxed under federal law as a real 13 estate investment trust are income. All other distributions made by the company or 14 trust, including distributions from capital gains, depreciation, or depletion, whether 15 in the form of cash or an option to take new stock or cash or an option to purchase 16 additional shares, are principal.

17 D. All other corporate distributions are income, including cash dividends; 18 distributions of, or rights to subscribe to, shares, securities, or obligations of 19 corporations other than the distributing corporation, and the proceeds of the rights
20 or of the property distributions, except as Sub-sections A, B, or C above provide 21 otherwise.

22 E. If the distributing corporation gives a stockholder an option to receive a 23 distribution either in cash or in its own shares, the distribution chosen is income;
24 except as provided in Sub-sections B and C of this section.

25 F. A trustee may rely upon any statement of the distributing corporation as 26 to any fact relevant under any provision of this Sub-part concerning the source or 27 character of dividends or distributions of corporate assets.

28 A. Except as otherwise provided in this Section, a trustee shall allocate to 29 income money received on account of an interest in a juridical person.

1 B. A trustee shall allocate to principal the following distributions received
2 on account of a trustee's interest in a juridical person:

3 (1) Property other than money.
4 (2) Money received in one distribution or a series of related distributions in 5 exchange for part or all of a trustee's interest in the juridical person.
6 (3) Money received in total or partial liquidation of the juridical person.
7 (4) Money received from a regulated investment company or a real estate
8 investment trust if the money distributed is a capital gain dividend for federal income 9 tax purposes.

10 C. Money is received in partial liquidation to the extent that the juridical 11 person, at or near the time of a distribution, indicates that it is a distribution in partial 12 liquidation. A partial liquidation also occurs if the total amount of money and 13 property received in a distribution or series of related distributions is greater than 14 twenty percent of the juridical person's gross assets, as shown by the juridical 15 person's year-end financial statements immediately preceding the initial receipt.

16 D. Money is not received in partial liquidation, nor may it be taken into 17 account under Subsection C of this Section, to the extent that it does not exceed the 18 amount of income tax that a trustee or beneficiary must pay on taxable income of the 19 juridical person that distributes the money.

20 E. Notwithstanding the provisions of this Section, if the receipt is one to 21 which a more specific provision of this Subpart applies, a trustee may allocate the 22 receipt based upon the source or character of the receipt and may rely upon a 23 statement made by the juridical person regarding the source or character of the 24 receipt.

25 Revision Comments - 2020

26 (a) This revision is based upon Section 401 of the 1997 version of the 27 Uniform Principal and Income Act. Prior law contained in R.S. 9:2149 and 2150
28 was adopted verbatim (with the exception of R.S. 9:2149(D)) from the 1962 version
29 of the UPIA. At the time of that Act, the dominant business form was the 30 corporation. Thus, both the UPIA of 1962 and prior Louisiana law made no mention 31 of limited liability companies or other modern business forms. The new UPIA of 32 1997 retains the same basic principles as the 1962 version but broadens the types of 33 business forms to which the law is applicable. Given the multitude of types of 34 juridical persons, it is not feasible to continue the old schematic that listed the

1 various types of property that would be classified as principal. The 1997 UPIA and 2 this revision classify all non-monetary property as principal and thus include all of 3 the prior categories of property that were classified as principal.

4 (b) A cash distribution may be large (for example, more than 10% but not 5 more than 20% of a juridical person's assets) and have characteristics that suggest it
6 should be treated as principal rather than income. For example, a juridical person
7 may have received cash from a source other than the conduct of its normal business 8 operations because it sold an investment asset; or it sold a business asset other than 9 one held for sale to customers in the normal course of business and did not replace 10 it; or it borrowed a large sum of money and secured the repayment of the loan with 11 a substantial asset; or a principal source of its cash was from assets such as mineral 12 interests, 90% of which would have been allocated to principal if the trust had owned 13 the assets directly. In such a case the trustee, after considering the total return from 14 the portfolio as a whole and the income component of that return, may decide to 15 exercise the power under R.S. 9:2158 to make an adjustment between income and 16 principal.

17 (c) Subsection E of this Section provides the trustee with discretion to make 18 an allocation regarding a receipt in accordance with the other provisions of this 19 Section or in accordance with the source of the receipt, provided a more specific rule 20 governs the source of the receipt in this Part. For instance, if the source of the 21 receipt is due to the trustee's interest in a limited liability company deriving funds 22 from minerals, then the trustee may allocate the receipt in accordance with the 23 provisions of this Section or in accordance with the provisions of R.S. 9:2152. In 24 making the allocation, Subsection E also provides the trustee with the authority to 25 rely upon a statement of the relevant juridical person as to the source of the receipt 26 without requiring the trustee to otherwise ascertain its source.

27 (d) The Comments that accompanied the 1964 enactment of this provision,
28 which are superseded by the 2020 Revision Comments, appear in Acts 1964, No.
29 338.

30 §2150. Bonds Obligation to pay money

31 A. ~~Bonds or other obligations for the payment of money are principal at their~~ 32 ~~inventory value, except as provided in Sub-section B below. No provision shall be~~ 33 ~~made for amortization of bond premiums or for accumulation for discount. The~~ 34 ~~proceeds of sale, redemption, or other disposition of the bonds or obligations are~~ 35 ~~principal.~~

36 B. ~~The increment in value of a bond or other obligation for the payment of~~ 37 ~~money payable at a future time in accordance with a fixed schedule of appreciation~~
38 ~~in excess of the price at which it was issued is income. The increment in value is~~ 39 ~~distributable at the time provided in R.S. 9:1841 through 9:1847, R.S. 9:1891~~
40 ~~through 9:1906, and R.S. 9:1961 through 9:1965, from the first principal cash~~
41 ~~available to the beneficiary who was the income beneficiary at the time of increment.~~

1 If unrealized increment is distributed as income but out of principal, the principal
2 shall be reimbursed for the increment when realized.

3 A. An amount received as interest, whether determined at a fixed, variable,
4 or floating rate, on an obligation to pay money to the trustee, including an amount 5 received in return for prepaying principal, shall be allocated to income without any 6 provision for amortization of premium.

7 B. A trustee shall allocate to principal an amount received from the sale,
8 redemption, or other disposition of an obligation to pay money to the trustee more
9 than one year after it is purchased or acquired by the trustee, including an obligation
10 whose purchase price or value when it is acquired is less than its value at maturity.
11 If the obligation matures within one year after it is purchased or acquired by the 12 trustee, an amount received in excess of its purchase price or its value when acquired 13 by the trust shall be allocated to income.

14 C. This Section does not apply to an obligation to which R.S. 9:2151.2, 15 2152, 2153, or 2154 applies.

16 Revision Comments - 2020

17 (a) This revision is based upon Section 406 of the UPIA (1997).

18 (b) This revision changes the law by providing that the entire increase in 19 value of discount obligations is attributable to principal when the trustee receives the 20 proceeds from the disposition, unless the obligation, when acquired, has a maturity
21 of less than one year.

22 (c) The Comments that accompanied the 1964 enactment of this provision,
23 which are superseded by the 2020 Revision Comments, appear in Acts 1964, No.
24 338.

25 §2151. Business operations Sole proprietorship

26 If a trustee uses any part of the principal in the operation of a business of 27 which, as trustee, he is a proprietor or a partner, the proceeds and losses of the 28 business The receipts and expenses of a sole proprietorship shall be allocated in 29 accordance with what is reasonable and equitable in view of the interests of those 30 entitled to income as well as of those entitled to principal, and in view of the manner 31 in which men of ordinary prudence, discretion, and intelligence would act in the 32 management of their own affairs.

§2151.2. Deferred compensation, annuities, and similar payments

A. Payments made in money or other property to a trustee over a period of years or during the life of an individual from an annuity, an individual retirement account, an employee-benefit plan, a pension plan, a profit-sharing plan, a deferred compensation plan, or any similar arrangement created pursuant to income-tax incentives to fund for retirement are allocated as follows:

(1) To the extent that a payment is characterized as interest, a dividend, or a payment made in lieu of interest or a dividend, a trustee shall allocate the payment to income. The trustee shall allocate to principal the balance of the payment and any other payment received in the same accounting period that is not characterized as interest, a dividend, or an equivalent payment.

(2) If no part of a payment is characterized as interest, a dividend, or an equivalent payment, and all or part of the payment is required to be made, a trustee shall allocate to income ten percent of the part that is required to be made during the accounting period and the balance to principal. If no part of a payment is required to be made or the payment received is the entire amount to which the trustee is entitled, the trustee shall allocate the entire payment to principal. To the extent that a trustee exercises a right of withdrawal, a payment is not considered to be required to be made.

B. If, in order to qualify for a marital deduction, a trustee must allocate more of a payment to income than provided for in this Section, the trustee shall allocate to income the additional amount necessary to qualify for the marital deduction.

Revision Comments - 2020

(a) This provision is based, in part, on Section 409 of the UPIA (1997) and informed by statutes from other states that have modified Section 409 of the UPIA. See, e.g., Mass. Gen. Law. Ann. 203D-18; N. J. Stat. Ann. 3B:19B-17; N.Y. Estate, Prob. & Tr. Law 11-A-4.9; Alaska Rev. Stat. 13.38.690; Hawaii Rev. Stat. 557A-409; Ohio. Rev. Code 5812.32.

(b) This Section applies to amounts received by a trustee under contractual arrangements that provide for payments to a third-party beneficiary as a result of services rendered or property transferred to a payer in exchange for future payments. It applies whether the payments begin when the payment right becomes subject to the trust or are deferred until a future date, and it applies whether payments are made in cash or in kind, such as employer stock. In-kind payments usually will be made in a single distribution that will be allocated to principal under the second sentence of Paragraph (A)(2).

(c) Paragraph (A)(1) applies only to certain types of deferred compensation, phantom stock plans, and similar plans whose terms characterize a payment as dividends or interest. It does not apply to individual retirement accounts and similar arrangements. Paragraph (A)(2) applies to required payments from an IRA or similar arrangement.

1 (d) Paragraph (A)(2) of this Section differentiates between payments that are
2 required to be made and all other payments. To the extent that a payment is required
3 to be made (either under federal income tax rules, or, in the case of a plan that is not 4 subject to those rules, under the terms of the plan), 10% of the amount received is 5 allocated to income and the balance to principal. The right to receive payments
6 under this Paragraph is a type of liquidating asset and therefore is treated similarly 7 to property subject to depletion under R.S. 9:2154. All other payments are allocated
8 to principal because they represent a change in the form of the principal asset. To 9 that extent, this rule follows the general policy of R.S. 9:2144, which provides that 10 property received in replacement of property shall be allocated to principal.

11 (e) Under Revenue Ruling 2006-26, the Internal Revenue Service declared
12 that the 10% allocation provided in Section 409 of the UPIA did not qualify for the 13 IRS's safe harbors, as 10% of a required minimum distribution is not a reasonable 14 apportionment of the total return of the trust between income and principal. Under 15 the ruling, the trustee is required to make available to the beneficiary the income of 16 an IRA or defined contribution plan in order to qualify. To comply with the ruling, 17 Section 409 of the UPIA was amended in 2008 to provide separate rules for 18 determining the income of a marital trust that is the beneficiary of an IRA or similar 19 arrangement. This revision simplifies the provisions of the UPIA while, at the same 20 time, allowing the preservation of the marital deduction.

21 §2152. Proceeds of mineral interests

22 A. If any part of the principal consists of a right to receive royalties or 23 overriding royalties, production from working interests or production payments, 24 proceeds from net profits interests or payments for the right to extract minerals from 25 immovable property, or other interests in oil, gas, and other minerals, the allocation 26 of the proceeds of such interests shall be made as follows:

27 (1) If received as a delay rental on a lease, extension of payments on a lease,
28 shut-in royalty, or bonus for the execution of a lease, the proceeds shall be allocated 29 to income;

30 (2) If received from a production payment, then to the extent of any stated 31 factor for interest or its equivalent, the proceeds shall be allocated to income; the 32 balance of such proceeds shall be apportioned between principal and income by 33 allocating to principal the fraction thereof that the unrecovered cost of the production 34 payment bears to the remaining balance due upon the production payment (excluding 35 any factor for interest or its equivalent) and by allocating the remainder of such 36 proceeds to income;

37 (3) If received from a royalty, overriding royalty, limited royalty, or working 38 interest, net profits interest, or from any other interest in oil, gas, or other minerals,
39 not specifically covered in this section, such proceeds shall be allocated to principal

1 until such time as the cost for such interest (including both tangible and intangible
2 drilling cost) has been fully recovered; thereafter, such proceeds shall be apportioned
3 between principal and income so that twenty-seven and one-half percent of the gross
4 proceeds (but not to exceed fifty percent of the net proceeds remaining after payment 5 of all expenses, direct and indirect, computed without allowances for depletion) shall 6 be allocated to a reserve for depletion to be added to principal and the balance of the 7 gross proceeds, after payment therefrom of all expenses, direct and indirect, shall be 8 allocated to income.

9 B. This section is not applicable to timber, water, soil, sod, dirt, turf, mosses,
10 shells, gravel, or other natural resources.

11 A. To the extent that a trustee accounts for receipts from an interest in 12 mineral rights or other interest in oil, gas, or other minerals pursuant to this Section, 13 the trustee shall allocate them as follows:

14 (1) If received as delay rental or annual rent on a mineral lease, a receipt 15 shall be allocated to income.

16 (2) If received from a production payment, a receipt shall be allocated to 17 income if and to the extent that the agreement creating the production payment 18 provides a factor for interest or its equivalent. The balance shall be allocated to 19 principal.

20 (3) If received as a royalty, overriding royalty, shut-in payment, take-or-pay
21 payment, or bonus, a receipt shall be allocated in accordance with what is reasonable 22 and equitable in view of the interests of those entitled to income as well as of those 23 entitled to principal.

24 (4) If an amount is received from a working interest or any other interest not 25 provided for in this Subsection, a receipt shall be allocated in accordance with what 26 is reasonable and equitable in view of the interests of those entitled to income as well 27 as of those entitled to principal.

28 B. This Section applies whether or not a decedent or donor was extracting 29 oil, gas, or other minerals before the interest became subject to the trust.

1 C. If the trust property includes an interest in mineral rights or other interest
2 in oil, gas, or other minerals on the effective date of this Act, the trustee may allocate
3 receipts from the interest as provided in this Section or in the manner used by the 4 trustee before the effective date of this Act. If the trustee acquires an interest in 5 mineral rights or other interest in oil, gas, or other minerals after the effective date
6 of this Act, the trustee shall allocate receipts from the interest as provided in this 7 Section.

8 D. An allocation of a receipt under this Section is presumed to be reasonable
9 and equitable if ninety percent is allocated to principal and ten percent to income.
10 Any other allocation shall not be presumed to be unreasonable or inequitable.

11 E. This Section is not applicable to timber, water, soil, sod, dirt, turf, mosses,
12 shells, gravel, or other natural resources.

13 Revision Comments - 2020

14 (a) This provision is new. It is based upon Texas Property Code Section 15 116.174 and Section 411 of the UPIA (1997). Unlike the UPIA but like Texas law,
16 this Section allows for allocation of royalty payments associated with oil and gas
17 leases in a manner that is reasonable and equitable. Under Subsection D but unlike 18 the Texas statute, this provision adopts a safe harbor providing that an allocation of 19 ninety percent to principal and ten percent to income is presumed to be reasonable 20 and equitable but at the same time being clear that other allocations are not 21 necessarily unreasonable or inequitable. Prior law allocated the royalty payments 22 associated with oil and gas leases in the amount of 27.5% to principal and 72.5% to 23 income. These percentages have been part of the Trust Code since 1964 and were 24 included at that time because the Internal Revenue Code provided for a 27.5%
25 depletion allowance. At that time, the UPIA of 1962 also provided similarly. The 26 IRC now no longer provides for the 27.5% depletion allowance. As a result, many 27 states have adopted a 90% depletion rate from the 1997 version of the UPIA. See, 28 e.g., Cal. Prob. Code § 16363; Mich. Comp. Laws § 555.811; Colo. Laws. 15-1-421.
29 The rationale for this drastic change is that the old law inappropriately caused a large 30 portion of oil and gas proceeds - 72.5% - to be paid out as income. Over the life of 31 a well, the output would be depleted significantly. Allocating more to principal 32 allows the trustee to obtain other income-producing assets that might still be 33 productive when the minerals are exhausted. The approach adopted by this Section 34 allows the trustee flexibility in the allocation.

35 (b) Subsection B abolishes the open mines doctrine in trust.

36 (c) Under Subsection C, the new depletion allowances are made
37 prospectively applicable. For oil and gas interests included in a trust on the effective 38 date of this provision, the trustee has discretion in deciding which method of 39 depletion (i.e., the old or new law) to apply.

40 (d) Unlike the UPIA and the Texas statute, this provision does not apply to 41 water, timber, gravel, or other natural resources. R.S. 9:2153 and 2154 provide the 42 appropriate rules with respect to timber and other property subject to depletion.

(e) The Comments that accompanied the 1964 enactment of this provision, which are superseded by the 2020 Revision Comments, appear in Acts 1964, No. 338.

§2153. Timber

A. If part of the principal consists of land from which timber may be removed, the receipts from taking the timber from the land shall be allocated in accordance with what is reasonable and equitable in view of the interests of those entitled to income as well as of those entitled to principal, and in view of the manner in which men of ordinary prudence, discretion, and intelligence would act in the management of their own affairs.

B. An allocation of a receipt under this Section is presumed to be reasonable and equitable if ninety percent is allocated to principal and ten percent to income. Any other allocation shall not be presumed to be unreasonable or inequitable.

Revision Comments - 2020

(a) This revision updates the language but maintains the "reasonable and equitable" standard. Like R.S. 9:2152, Subsection B adopts a safe harbor providing that an allocation of ninety percent to principal and ten percent to income is presumed to be reasonable and equitable but at the same time being clear that other allocations are not necessarily unreasonable or inequitable. It also deletes the "prudent man" rule that existing under prior law because persons of "ordinary prudence, discretion, and intelligence" do not generally consider the interests of successor beneficiaries in managing their own affairs. See, e.g., UPIA (1997) §103, Comment.

(b) This Section is consistent with the principles of Louisiana property law that generally treat trees as capital assets rather than fruits. In some instances, however, trees in a tree farm or in a regularly exploited forest must be treated as fruits. See, e.g., Civil Code Article 551, Comment (b).

(c) The Comments that accompanied the 1964 enactment of this provision, which are superseded by the 2020 Revision Comments, appear in Acts 1964, No. 338.

§2154. Other property subject to depletion

A. Except as provided in R.S. 9:2152 and 9:2153 2153, if the principal consists of property subject to depletion, receipts from the property not in excess of five percent of its inventory value are income, and the balance is principal the receipts shall be allocated in accordance with what is reasonable and equitable in view of the interests of those entitled to income as well as those entitled to principal.

1 B. An allocation of a receipt under this Section is presumed to be reasonable
2 and equitable if ninety percent is allocated to principal and ten percent to income.
3 Any other allocation shall not be presumed to be unreasonable or inequitable.

4 Revision Comments - 2020

5 (a) This revision updates the law to make the depletion allowance consistent 6 with the "reasonable and equitable" standard in R.S. 9:2153. Like R.S. 9:2152 and 7 2153, Subsection B adopts a safe harbor providing that an allocation of ninety 8 percent to principal and ten percent to income is presumed to be reasonable and 9 equitable but at the same time being clear that other allocations are not necessarily 10 unreasonable or inequitable.

11 (b) The Comments that accompanied the 1964 enactment of this provision,
12 which are superseded by the 2020 Revision Comments, appear in Acts 1964, No.
13 338.

Revision Comments - 2020

2 This Section deviates from Sections 501, 502, and 504 of the UPIA (1997).
3 Paragraph (A)(2) of the prior law regarding depreciable property has been deleted
4 in favor of a new provision, R.S. 9:2156.1, which is based upon Section 503 of the 5 UPIA. Paragraphs (A)(7) and (C)(9) of the prior law regarding allocation of taxes
6 have been deleted in favor of a new provision, R.S. 9:2156.2. Paragraph (C)(12) of 7 the prior law, which allocated to principal all expenses not otherwise allocated to 8 income, has also been deleted in light of the revision now contained in R.S.
9 9:2142(3).

10 §2156.1. Transfers from income to principal for depreciation

11 A trustee may transfer to principal a reasonable amount of the net cash 12 receipts from a principal asset that is subject to depreciation but may not transfer any 13 amount for depreciation during the administration of a succession or for that portion 14 of an immovable used or available for use by a beneficiary as a residence or of 15 corporeal movables held or made available for the personal use or enjoyment of a 16 beneficiary. An amount transferred to principal need not be held as a separate fund.

17 Revision Comments - 2020

18 (a) This Section is based upon Section 503 of the UPIA (1997). Under 19 Section 503(a) of the UPIA and this Section, the term "depreciation" means a 20 reduction in value due to wear, tear, decay, corrosion, or gradual obsolescence of a 21 fixed asset having a useful life of more than one year.

22 (b) Under this revision, a transfer to principal for depreciation is 23 discretionary with the trustee. Prior law provided that a charge shall be made against 24 income for "... a reasonable allowance for depreciation under generally accepted
25 accounting principles..." That provision was resisted by many trustees who did not 26 provide for depreciation for a number of reasons. One reason relied upon was that 27 a charge for depreciation was not needed to protect the beneficiaries if the value of 28 the land was increasing; another was that generally accepted accounting principles
29 might not require depreciation to be taken if the property was not part of a business.
30 This revision allows the trustee more flexibility and broader discretion in taking 31 depreciation.

32 §2156.2. Income taxes

33 A. A tax required to be paid by a trustee based on receipts allocated to 34 income shall be paid from income.

35 B. A tax required to be paid by a trustee based on receipts allocated to 36 principal shall be paid from principal, even if the tax is denominated an income tax 37 by the taxing authority.

38 C. A tax required to be paid by a trustee on the trust's share of a juridical 39 person's taxable income shall be paid as follows:

(1) From income to the extent that receipts from the juridical person are allocated only to income.

(2) From principal to the extent that receipts from the juridical person are allocated only to principal.

(3) Proportionately from principal and income to the extent that receipts from the juridical person are allocated to both income and principal

(4) From principal to the extent that the tax exceeds the total receipts from the juridical person

D. After applying the provisions of this Section, the trustee shall adjust income or principal receipts to the extent that the trust's taxes are reduced because the trust receives a deduction for payments made to a beneficiary.

Revision Comments - 2020

(a) This Section is based upon Section 505 of the UPIA (1997).

(b) When trust property includes an interest in a pass-through entity, such as a partnership or S corporation, the trust must report its share of the juridical person's taxable income regardless of how much the juridical person distributes to the trust. Whether the juridical person distributes more or less than the trust's tax on its share of the juridical person's taxable income, the trustee must pay the taxes and allocate them between income and principal.

(c) Subsection C requires the trustee to pay the taxes on its share of a juridical person's taxable income from income or principal receipts to the extent that receipts from the juridical person are allocable to each. This assures the trust a source of cash to pay some or all of the taxes on its share of the juridical person's taxable income. Subsection D recognizes that a trust normally receives a deduction for amounts distributed to a beneficiary. Accordingly, Subsection D requires the trustee to increase receipts payable to a beneficiary as determined under Subsection C to the extent the trust's taxes are reduced by distributing those receipts to the beneficiary.

SUBPART E. POWER TO MAKE PROPERTY PRODUCTIVE OF INCOME

§2164. Underproductive property

If a marital deduction is allowed for all or part of a trust whose assets consist substantially of property that does not provide the spouse with sufficient income from or use of the trust assets, and if the amounts that the trustee transfers from principal to income under R.S. 9:2158 and distributes to the spouse from principal pursuant to the terms of the trust are insufficient to provide the spouse an interest required to obtain the marital deduction, the spouse may require the trustee to make property productive of income, convert property within a reasonable time, or exercise the power conferred by R.S. 9:2158. The trustee may decide which action or combination of actions to take.

Revision Comments - 2020

(a) This revision is based upon Section 413(a) of the UPIA (1997).

(b) R.S. 9:2127 provides that "[a] trustee's investment and management decisions are to be evaluated in the context of the trust property as a whole..." The law in prior R.S. 9:2155 gave the income beneficiary a right to receive a portion of the proceeds from the sale of underproductive property as "delayed income." This provision applied on an asset-by-asset basis and not by taking into consideration the trust portfolio as a whole and thus conflicted with the basic precept in R.S. 9:2127. Moreover, in determining the amount of delayed income, the prior law did not permit the trustee to take into account the extent to which the trustee may have distributed principal to the income beneficiary, under principal invasion provisions in the terms of the trust, to compensate for insufficient income from the unproductive asset. Under R.S. 9:2158, a trustee must consider prior distributions of principal to the income beneficiary in deciding whether and to what extent to exercise the power to adjust.

(c) Although this revision abolishes the right to receive delayed income, it allows an income beneficiary's right to compel the trustee to make property productive of income. The duty to make property productive of income should be determined by taking into consideration the performance of the portfolio as a whole and the extent to which a trustee makes principal distributions to the income beneficiary under the terms of the trust and adjustments between principal and income under R.S. 9:2158.

(d) Under this revision, once the surviving spouse makes an appropriate demand that the trustee take action, the trustee must decide whether to make property productive of income, convert it, transfer funds from principal to income, or take some combination of those actions.

Section 2. R.S. 9:2155 and 2157 are hereby repealed in their entirety.

Section 3. The existing Comments to R.S. 9:2148 through 2154 are superseded by the Comments appearing beneath those Sections in this Act. The Louisiana State Law Institute is hereby directed to remove the existing Comments and to print only the Comments appearing in this Act.

Section 4. The Louisiana State Law Institute is hereby directed to redesignate Subpart F of Part V of Chapter 1 of Code Title II of Code Book III of Title 9 of the Louisiana Revised Statutes of 1950, entitled "THE TRUSTEE'S BOND", as Subpart G of Part V of Chapter 1 of Code Title II of Code Book III of Title 9 of the Louisiana Revised Statutes of 1950, and to retain the heading of this Subpart.

1 Section 5. The provisions of this Act shall become effective on January 1, 2021,
2 Except as specifically provided in this Act or in the provisions of the trust, the provisions of 3 this Act apply to trusts existing as of the effective date of this Act.

SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF LOUISIANA

§2207. Relief from liability by beneficiary

A competent beneficiary who is acting with knowledge of the material facts and whose action is not improperly induced by the conduct of a trustee may, by written instrument delivered to a trustee, relieve a trustee from liabilities that otherwise would be imposed upon him. The instrument shall not be effective if it purports to limit a trustee's liability for improperly advancing money or conveying property to a beneficiary of a spendthrift trust or a trust under which a beneficiary's right to alienate is restricted, or if it limits prospectively and in general terms a trustee's liability for breach of the duty of loyalty to a beneficiary, or for breach of trust in bad faith.

Revision Comments - 2020

This revision changes the law in two ways. First, it deletes the reference to "competent" beneficiaries, as this provision is not intended to limit authorized representatives of a beneficiary, such as a mandatory, tutor, or curator, from acting on behalf of the beneficiary. Moreover, the term "competent" is not defined by the Louisiana Trust Code and the corresponding concept in the Civil Code is "capacity" rather than "competency." See, e.g., Civil Code Articles 27, 1470 through 1477, and 1918. Second, it removes the limitation that prevents a beneficiary from agreeing to limit a trustee's liability for "improperly advancing money or conveying property" to a beneficiary of a spendthrift trust or a trust with restrictions on the beneficiary's right to alienate his interest. Even at the time of the enactment of the original provision in 1964, this limitation was controversial. It has been deleted in light of a modern trend not to so limit a beneficiary's ability to relieve a trustee of liability. See, e.g., Unif. Trust Code § 1009; Restatement (Third) of Trusts § 97.
