

$14.95 Now available on our shelves

Author Nancy Washburn

Advice from an Experienced
Parent Educator and Child Development Professor

Tools to feel competent as a parent of a teenager - Engaging stories with simple lessons for parenting your teen - Simple messages that all teens need to hear to grow up emotionally healthy - Knowledge of what all teens are experiencing developmentally - Advice on how to navigate important and difficult conversations with your teens - Examples of how to shift from conflict with your teen into responsiveness and enduring connection - Ways to foster your teen's success in life and build a lasting parent-child bond

Nancy Washburn, M.A., is a Professor and Vice-Chair of Child and Family Studies at LA City College. Her goal as a professor has been to inspire new teachers and parents to go forward, and use their knowledge to help children and families be their best. Washburn has taught a variety of workshops on Parenting, Conflict Resolution, and Guidance. One of her favorite jobs has been raising three children of her own into productive human beings.

Her book You and Me Kid enlightens parents and gives them the tools they need to have a positive relationship with their children and help them to be secure within themselves and in the world.