Dewdrop's Favorite Axolotl Facts!

How do I say axolotl?

Axolotl is pronounced ACK-suh-LAH-tuhl. Legend says axolotls were named after the ancient Aztec god, Xolotl, who disguised himself as a salamander.

What's an axolotl?

An axolotl is an amphibian called a salamander, but unlike other salamanders, axolotls will live in water their whole life!

Are all axolotls pink?

Other than being light pink like Dewdrop, axolotls can also be black, brown, darkly spotted, or white!

What do Axolotls eat?

Just like Dewdrop, axolotls love worms! Other foods they like to eat include mollusks, insects, crustaceans, and some fish.

Do real-life axolotls have talents?

Dewdrop is great at cheerleading, but real life axolotls have a different talent—they can regrow body parts! If an axolotl hurts or loses an arm, leg, lung, heart, or even part of their brain, they can regenerate, or regrow that part of their body.

Where do axolotls live?

Dewdrop lives underwater in a lake, and real-life axolotls do too! But you aren't very likely to find one in a lake near your house unless you live near Mexico City by freshwater lakes Xochimilco and Chalco, since these are the only two lakes that axolotls inhabit in the wild. However, you can still visit axolotls in aquariums all over the world!
