

Grant Writing 201

If you want to learn more tips and tricks about successful grant proposals, then Grant Writing 201 is for you!

In Grant Writing 201 you will learn the top 10 tips for successful grant proposals and the best practices in the preparation and submission of grant proposals.

Instructors Katie Monroe, grant writer and Director of Corporate and Foundation Relations at UNC, and Michael Fitzsimmons, owner of Fitzsimmons Strategic Consulting in Greeley, will cover what to look for in a grant solicitation and how to make your application competitive.

Participants also will take an in-depth look at and learn through a hands-on activity in the first step to grant proposals, the development of a Letter of Intent.

MEET YOUR INSTRUCTORS

Mr. Fitzsimmons serves as the Resource Development Director for the Evangelical Lutheran Good Samaritan Society, as well as owner of his own consulting business for fundraising management for non-profits, profit organizations and political candidates. He recently received his certification in Fund Raising Management from the Lilly Family School Of Philanthropy, Indiana University's Fund Raising School. He provides fundraising strategies and grant writing experience for his clients. He also provides leadership training for non-profit board of directors.

A proud UNC Bear and experienced grant writer, Katie Monroe joined the advancement team in 2019 as Director of Corporate and Foundation Relations. Prior to joining UNC, Katie served as a Grant Administrator for Licking County Family YMCA (Granville, OH) and Director of Regional Partnerships for United Way of Southwest Wyoming (Rock Springs, WY), among other roles with community and service organizations.
