

CONSTRUCTION ZONES: BIG TRUCKS BIG DANGER

Think Safety
Remember the Safety Rules

- Don't play around construction zones
- Orange means construction
- Be alert and careful near construction zones
- Cross only at assigned areas:
Look left, right and left again

SR-9

RENEWED

Rockville to Zion National Park

HAVE FUN AND BE SAFE

Road construction is starting in your town to avoid impacting the high tourist traffic that comes from spring to fall. Big trucks will be moving dirt, digging holes and doing all kinds of heavy work. It's the workers' job to do the construction, and it's your job to have fun and be safe. Here's what you need to know to walk to school safe and sound:

Stay In the Safe Zone — You aren't allowed to go into construction areas, but it's okay to watch the work from a distance. Just remember that anywhere outside the orange barrels is the Safe Zone.

Cross Only Where It's Allowed — Construction areas are dangerous. They have deep holes, big trucks and other equipment that isn't safe. The workers can't see you, so look left, then right and then left again before you cross a construction area.

Be Truck Smart — Big trucks are always driving around construction areas and the truck driver's view is limited. Remember the safety rule: if you can't see the truck driver's face, they can't see you.

Think Safety — It's your job to be safe. When you're playing, remind your friends that you need to stay in the Safe Zone and away from construction.

Learn Construction Sign Language — Each sign means something special. Learn the language to stay safe:

Trucks working nearby –
keep your eyes open

Be ready to slow down or stop

Work ahead –
be really careful

Construction Zone – don't go beyond this point

Road is closed ahead –
use another road

Please cross to the other side of the street

Work is done,
drive safely

Find out more about construction in your area:

- Web: udot.utah.gov/go/sr9
- Email: sr9@utah.gov
- Hotline: 1.888.556.0232 x4