Playground Park Revamp

A Community-Driven Project for All Ages and Abilities

TO DATE: $345,000 raised toward the goal of $670,000

Playground Park Revamp is preparing for the future of Green Lake

This project is more than just a playground - it's an investment in our community's future. Knowing that the City cannot fully fund this essential space, Playground Pals (Amanda Castleberry, Kathy Grahn, Rachel Nitz, and Jill Williams) has taken the lead in raising the necessary funds. They are proud to be the driving force behind this project and need continued support from the Green Lake community to see it through. Beyond the playground itself, this project will have a lasting impact on Green Lake's economy and community spirit. The goal is not just to revamp the playground, but to make it a space that serves everyone - families, children, and individuals of all abilities.

Playground Park will feature a variety of inclusive play equipment designed to engage children of all abilities. From accessible swings and climbing structures to sensory panels and a special-needs glider, the park will offer children the opportunity to interact and play together, fostering social connections and learning experiences. It will also include shaded seating areas, safe pathways, and ADA-compliant surfacing, ensuring that the entire family can enjoy the space. In addition to meeting the needs of children with disabilities, the inclusive park is designed to benefit EVERYONE in the community. We envision a space where parents, grandparents, and caregivers can interact with their children in a safe, enjoyable environment. The design also ensures that people with limited mobility, including adults with disabilities, can fully participate in activities, making it a true community hub.
