Diabetic Support Services of Salem Oregon is celebrating its 12th Anniversary!

Since its inception in 2007 Diabetic Support Services [DSS] has been providing free education and Sonic vibration exercise sessions to the Salem community, and to those that have reached out from across the nation for help.

As a 501[c] 3 non-profit corporation, totally volunteer operated, DSS has touched the lives of nearly 20,000 people in the last 12 years. DSS was formed as an offshoot of the original clinical study done by Dr. Junggi Hong at Willamette University in Salem OR. Where he found that Sonic Vibration exercise could greatly help those suffering from diabetic peripheral neuropathy as well as fibromyalgia and has been published in several medical journals. Sondra's husband was actually a participant in the original study, and she continued on to form Diabetic Support Services to continue to help thousands of people.

In Sondra's words, It is humbling to realize that Diabetic Support Services, through not only our free education programs, but our whole body sonic vibration suite as well, has been called to "take away fear and replace it with hope" as our mission statement touts. Happy 12th Anniversary Diabetic Support Services.

If there were more organizations like Diabetic Support Services throughout the US we would not have such an epidemic of Diabetes.
