

Register today for Freshwater Faithworks Intergenerational Camp at Daycholah Center- June 28-July 1, 2026 and the Middle School Adventure

Freshwater Faithworks is a new summer program focusing on the intersection of freshwater ecology and faith. In experiences ranging from a three-night intergenerational camp (June 28-July 1) to a four-night middle school trip (July 29-August 2), we will explore the importance and sanctity of our water sources and how human activity affects the health of our waterways for better or worse. With a combination of hands-on service-learning, education, exploration, and reflection, participants will be given the opportunity to experience freshwater sources in a wholistic way, inviting them to fall in love with water and empowering them to fight back against climate anxiety with tangible action.

Dive into discovery, faith, and family fun at Freshwater Faithworks Intergenerational Camp! Join us for an unforgettable adventure exploring the wonders of water and creation together. Families will learn about Green Lake and the surrounding watershed, take an exciting day trip to the shores of Lake Michigan, and participate in hands-on water science projects designed for curious minds of every age. Along the way, enjoy classic camp fun, meaningful connections, and opportunities to grow in faith as a family.

This unique camp experience is open to children of all ages and the adults in their lives — whether you're parents, grandparents, guardians, or mentors. Come make memories, explore God's freshwater world, and discover how we can care for creation together!

Get ready for an unforgettable journey at Freshwater Faithworks Middle School Adventure! Designed for middle school youth and their adult leaders, this immersive experience combines faith, exploration, and hands-on learning as we discover the power and importance of freshwater systems in our region.

Our adventure begins in Minneapolis along Minnehaha Creek, where participants will explore local waterways and learn how watersheds connect communities and ecosystems. From there, we'll travel to Little Falls, Minnesota, tracing the path of the mighty Mississippi River and discovering its impact on people, wildlife, and the environment along the way.

Through interactive activities, meaningful conversations, and shared adventure, youth will deepen their understanding of creation care while building friendships and memories that will last long after the journey ends.

Middle School Adventure

July 29 to August 2 | Creekside UCC, Minneapolis & First United Church of Little Falls
Cost: $75 for youth and $25 for adult leaders
