

Career Pathways Research Survey

Did you know that 83% of adult education providers in Chicago, Houston, and Miami are offering career pathways services?

Read more findings from a survey of 106 adult education providers in the report, "Career Pathways Programming for Lower-Skilled Adults and Immigrants." Funded by the Institute of Education Sciences (U.S. Department of Education), this researcher-practitioner partnership project is the first to map the landscape of career pathways in these three cities.

The report shares detailed survey findings about the following topics:

- Overview of adult education and career pathways in the three cities (e.g., organizational types, funding sources);
- Coordination and planning across career pathways providers;
- Student characteristics and demographics;
- Program design and delivery; and
- Student outcomes.

Statistically significant findings are highlighted throughout the report, including differences between cities.

For more information about this researcher-practitioner partnership between Penn State's Institute for the Study of Adult Literacy, Chicago Citywide Literacy Coalition, Houston Center for Literacy, and Miami-Dade County Public Schools, please visit our website: <http://adultpathways.psu.edu/>.

Stay tuned for future reports on focus groups with adult education providers and case studies of six exemplary organizations.