ABOUT STRAWBERRY MANSION COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION:

Since 2004, the Strawberry Mansion Community Development Corporation (SMCDC) has worked diligently on its mission to promote sustainable revitalization through residential, commercial and economic development, historic preservation and the empowerment of the Strawberry Mansion community. Through its neighborhood planning efforts, the SMCDC has partnered with the Philadelphia Commerce Department, Fairmount Park Conservancy, The University of Pennsylvania and Jefferson University to develop comprehensive neighborhood plans for residential and commercial corridors, repurposing vacant schools and industrial sites as well as plans for East Fairmount Park. Its development efforts include collaborations with Friends Rehabilitation Program (Strawberry Mansion Townhomes), Community Ventures (Cecil B. Moore Homes) on homeownership, and with Philadelphia Housing Authority on several affordable housing projects (Oakdale, Gordon and Berks Apartments). Recent collaborations on community amenities include the Septa's 33rd & Dauphin Street Bus Depot, Community Partnership School and the Discovery Center. To date, the SMCDC has represented the community in over 500 million dollars of public and private development. As development opportunities continue to surge, the SMCDC is committed to strengthening the community's position by promoting change that is inclusive of neighborhood plans and resident needs.

ABOUT THE COLTRANE HOUSE & JOHN COLTRANE MUSEUM & CULTRAL ARTS CENTER PROJECT

The Coltrane House was built in 1903 and is currently designated a National Historic Landmark, is on the National Register of Historic Places, and is listed on the Philadelphia Register of Historic Places. A marker honoring John Coltrane from the Pennsylvania Historical & Museum Commission was placed in front of the house in 1990. As such, all work performed on the house is to conform to the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation guidelines to ensure appropriate repair methods that preserve the integrity of the historic architecture. The Coltrane House is described as “the Philadelphia home of renowned jazz composer and performer, John Coltrane, between 1952 and his death in 1967" and all work prescribed for the house is to reflect that period of significance. SMCDC has always viewed the house where Coltrane, his mother and cousin Mary lived as a significant cultural and community asset that represents the community's long-time relationship to jazz and Fairmount Park. With a grant obtained from the Community Design Collaborative they were able to obtain the John Coltrane Museum and Cultural Arts Center Site Feasibility Study. This feasibility study will serve as the basis to develop and implement a plan to restore the house as a museum, preserve the row's architectural character, create a gateway to Strawberry Mansion and provide a center where jazz music can be heard, studied and appreciated.
