

John Hirshberger Joins AireSpring as Regional Channel Manager

AireSpring is pleased to announce that John Hirshberger has joined the AireSpring team as Channel Manager – Mid-Atlantic.

John began his career in telecom in 1998 as a Senior Account Manager at ATX Communications, a regional Competitive Local Exchange Carrier (CLEC), selling voice and data services, network security services, and IP telephony solutions for nearly a decade. After ATX was acquired by Broadview Networks (Windstream), John accepted a position as a Senior Sales Consultant at Evolve IP, and later moved on to XO Communications where he served as a Senior Major Account Executive. Before joining AireSpring, John spent 10 years as Channel Manager and National Channel Manager for Momentum Telecom, where he managed relationships with multiple Master Agents and their sub-agents in 11 southeastern states and the District of Columbia.

“I’m extremely excited to be joining a family-owned and operated company like AireSpring. Their products and customer service are renowned in the industry, and I look forward to helping the company grow its presence across the Mid-Atlantic region,” John stated.

“We’re thrilled to have John on board,” stated John Young, AireSpring’s Senior VP of Channel Sales. “He will be instrumental in making new partners aware of our growing network and award-winning products. Like AireSpring, John is 100% committed to serving the channel and delivering personalized, high-touch service.”
