Step-by-Step on How the 120-hour Program Works

- Visit the website of the NC Division of Health Service Regulation (DHSR) for details of the certification requirements:
www2.ncdhs.gov/dhsr/acls/.html.
- Register for the NCALTCF AIT two-day course in a classroom setting, which offers an overview of laws, rules, policies and procedures taught by Assisted Living professionals.
- In the course, you will receive instruction and course materials which include physical plant, human resources, organizational management and regulatory management. Also, a review of business, financial management and resident care is included.
- Course payment is due in full in advance of the course date and is non-refundable.
- A minimum of 100 hours will be spent working with an approved Preceptor at a licensed facility. There is a self-study portion with work assignments to be completed. Additional hours can be required if determined by the AIT provider and Preceptor. It is highly encouraged that the AIT identify a Preceptor of choice prior to attending the classroom training.

The AIT course should be completed within 12 months.

Overview on How to Get Started

Submit to: NC Division of Health Service Regulation (DHSR)

- Assisted Living Certification Application
- Proof of Age—21 years or older (i.e., driver's license)
- Copy of college transcript (Adult Care Home Certification) OR
- High School Diploma or GED (Family Care Home Approval)
- NC state fingerprint criminal background check
- FBI criminal background check, if applicable
- Completion of the 120-hour AIT course and preceptorship
