

WEEKLY NEWS

Who ordered the snow? At least it was a substantial snow storm that merited the day off! We had a lot of fun celebrating Dr. Seuss's birthday. We invited Mrs. Robinson's and Mrs. W's classes over for some Dr. Seuss fun! We will spend much of the month reading all of his great books! We also were able to enjoy spending time with our 6th grade buddies celebrating his birthday as well. The children have grasped the concept of subtraction very fast! They are enjoying thinking about their own subtraction problems and writing them on the dry erase boards. We will continue with problem solving in the weeks to come. Our main focus in Religion, naturally, is Lent. During our discussion about appropriate Lenten Good Deeds, one little guy raised his hand and announced that he was giving all of his money that he saved for legos to the missions. How touching is that, out of the mouth of babes! Lent is a time when I find people are more kindhearted with each other. This is certainly apparent in the Kindergarten classroom! May you all experience this as well!
