A Message from your President, Joan Johnson

As the world struggles to cope with the virus pandemic, we are trying very hard to carry on with positive thoughts and actions, as we assist people providing a glimmer of hope, comfort and yes, even pleasure!

Therefore, our kind efforts through sincere sharing and helping others will go a long way! Our artwork also captivates the natural beauty on earth and becomes a means of hope. May we continue to be blessed as artists!

Happy Painting! Joan

General Meeting, September 9, 2020 Demo Artist - Neil Collins

“Aspiring ballplayer found his right field”

Neil Collins was 9-years-old when he painted his first mural.

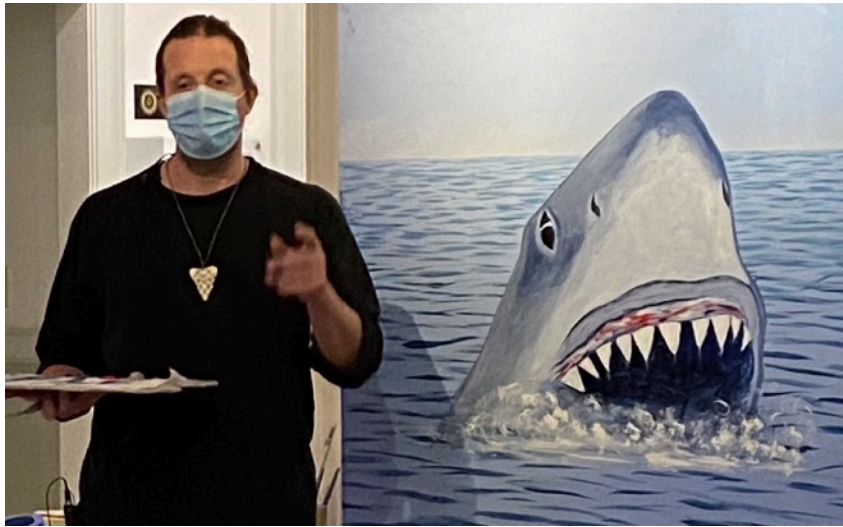

“I did Fenway on my bedroom wall with the four letters of my name on the bases,” he says. Like many young boys, Collins spent his youth playing little league and Babe Ruth baseball and rooting for the Boston Red Sox.

“I finally realized the Sox probably weren't going to draft me,” he says.

He put down his bat and picked up his brushes, forfeiting the dream of playing left field.

Collins then started reading art magazines to learn more about the craft and eventually wrote to artist Kent Twitchell for advice. “He wrote back to me and told me how to prepare a surface, how to varnish,” he says. “He was really helpful.” Collins, who graduated from Falmouth High School and lives in Mashpee, is now a full-time artist, and specializes in murals, paintings, signs and holiday cards. Much of his work involves underwater images or sports-related scenes.

When recreating familiar scenes such as landmarks, Collins always adds his own stamp. Collins says paintings of newer lighthouses (since they may be re-shingled over many years ago), aren't as popular. "I like it the way it used to be and it seems like other people do, too."

His beachside easel draws attention; cars slow down as they make their way past the Nobska beach houses, heads crane out windows to get a better look. Beach strollers approach curiously with cameras. Collins stands as if before a mirror, his canvas reflecting the majestic lighthouse in front of him. Collins studied for two years at the Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale but left because it was too expensive. Upon returning to the Cape, he took business and art courses at Cape Cod Community College, and describes art professor Sara Ringler as one of the best teachers he ever had. "She always went the extra mile to show she cared," he says. "Whatever you needed, she was there for you."

Like his childhood heroes, Collins makes a positive impact with his involvement in the Jimmy Fund. In 2006, two of his theme-painted cows were selected for the Cow Parade Boston and were displayed in the city from June through Labor Day and later auctioned off to benefit the fund. "Cape Cowder," which features lobster claw horns, was displayed in front of the Prudential Center and "Ted Williams Cow," covered in black and white images of the Red Sox icon, was displayed in front of the Old North Church, both raising a combined total of $13,500.

The fund later asked Collins to design a holiday card and in 2007, his Fenway-themed card was its top-seller, selling 52,000 copies. His childhood passion for the Red Sox has never waned. "Moonshot" features David Ortiz standing at the plate under a moonlit Boston skyline. Signed numbered canvas prints of the premiere and second edition of the painting are available only at Yankee Accent in Osterville. Since returning to the Cape from Florida, Collins has experienced a lot of support and encouragement from the local art community.

"The Woodruffs of Woodruff's Art Center in Mashpee Commons are great people. They provide a place for artists to network," he says. "You need that when things aren't going so well. It's important for artists to have support from people who have been doing it longer."

Social Distancing in The Great Room

Leading our YAG General Meeting is Gerry Murray, Treasurer

It was a safe environment and a great joy for YAG members to gather once again.

It's Fall Pumpkin Time! YAG Members Create!

An Invitation Was Received . . .

YAG received an email inviting them to join a pumpkin decorating venture . . . "The YAG artists have been asked to be part of a 'virtual painted pink pumpkin auction' to benefit breast cancer. The virtual auction is to take place starting October 1 and all through the month of October. Martha Tardif is the coordinator."

Elinor Freedman,
Pastel Artist . . .

Originally an artist from north of Boston, she became a Cape Cod washashore when she was inspired by the beauty of the landscape and creative energy of fellow artists. While Ellie has explored a variety of mediums, she is drawn to the vibrancy and immediacy of working with pastel. Using soft pastel on sanded papers or textured boards and acrylic or watercolor under-paintings, Ellie's pastels show a range of effects that bring her paintings to life. Her paintings may be seen at Elburne Home Decor in Dennis Village & Hanover, MA and at Eastwind Gallery, Orleans, MA as well as in numerous juried exhibitions.

Ellie is a juried master artist at the Cape Cod Art Center, Barnstable, MA, a juried artist of the National Association of Women Artists, and an associate member of the Pastel Society of America as well as a member of the Yarmouth Art Guild, Cotuit Center for the Arts, Arts Foundation of Cape Cod, Sandwich Arts Alliance, Arts Collaborative of Wakefield, the Connecticut Pastel Society, Pastel Society of New Hampshire and the Pastel Painters Society of Cape Cod for which she has served as a board member and coordinates a scholarship program for high school students who aspire to careers in the arts.

Ellie also serves as a docent and co-facilitator of docent training at the Cape Cod Museum of Art where she has collaborated with docents to curate museum exhibits.
