While this year has been “unique” to say the very least, the OATFACS Conference Planning Committee and Board has worked diligently to bring you a conference both in-person and virtually! Conference will be full of workshops and sessions that we hope will inspire Family and Consumer Sciences professionals to embrace the theme “Knowledge You Can't TEACH Without!!” Review the plans below and we hope to see you there!

We have very exciting sessions planned that highlight every area of Family and Consumer Sciences as well as sessions for Education & Training, Hospitality & Tourism, and Extension.

We are looking forward to this new adventure of an hybrid OATFACS conference and have focused on offering engaging professional development sessions along with our powerful lineup of speakers! This year we are pleased to announce that all attendees will have access to all session recordings and materials!

Speakers include:

Andrew McPeak, Keynote

Generation Z Unfiltered: Practical Ways to Lead Today's Newest Population

Generation Z, those born since 2001, have grown up in a world the likes of which we haven't seen in generations. Smartphones and social media, mass shootings and rising anxiety levels, recessions and even a pandemic have all shaped their reality beginning in their earliest years. So, who are these kids? And how do you even begin to lead a generation that has lived through this much? Using timely advice from "Generation Z Unfiltered," the latest book from Tim Elmore and Andrew McPeak, this session will provide insight into the generation of kids we lead today and provide practical tips on how to lead them well.

Ryan McLane, Impact Speaker

Dr. Arianna Howard, Impact Speaker
