Coming early in 2019...You have not seen Positive Approach® to Care (PAC) offer this content before!

Often, when dementia enters the picture, independence and ability come into question and can even find their way into the courtroom. Families and those living with dementia can fall apart when finances and legal issues get crowded into the picture with dementia.

In this enlightening online course, Teepa offers three case studies that show very different individuals living with dementia who find themselves in a courtroom situation. She will take you through what is happening with the dementia while working to help the legal community and families understand what could be done differently to make a better outcome for all.

This is a great addition to other PAC content that focuses on the person living with brain change and all involved when dementia walks into the courtroom.

This 105-minute course covers:

- Three courtroom scenarios with Teepa as someone living with dementia
  - Various forms of dementia
  - At various states in the progression
  - What could we do differently?
  - How do we change?
- PAC skills and content
  - Types of dementia
  - Vision changes with great visuals
  - Common mistakes and possible solutions
  - Progression of dementia (Teepa's GEMS®)
