

HPU programs earn perfect pass rates

SPECIAL | HPE

High Point University physical therapy students and faculty conduct research and attend classes inside the Human Biomechanics and Physiology Lab, one of the premier labs of its kind in the country. The 2020 graduates from HPU'S physical therapy and physician assistant studies programs achieved 100% pass rates on their national exams. The class of 2020 was the Physical Therapy Department's inaugural class. Its 100% pass rate on the National Physical Therapy Exam was four points above the national average. The physician assistant graduates received a top score on the Physician Assistant National Certifying Examination. The first-time-taker pass rate for the class was 100%, which is five points higher than the national average.
