

Generator is open for business

LAURA GREENE | HPE

Larry Tolbert, a product manager with SCM Group North America, is shown with one of its state-of-the-art wood-making machines during a live demonstration recently at The Generator at Congdon Yards. The Generator facility, developed in partnership with SCM Woodworking Technology, makes industrial-grade woodworking machinery accessible to all furniture designers and makers, interior designers and architects as well as small, medium and large furniture companies. The Generator also will be a resource to help train craftsmen with the specialized skills in demand among furniture companies. The Generator at Congdon Yards held its grand opening Oct. 18.
