

Meeting Of The Minds 2026

What Happens If We Don't Show Up?

Every year, people work to shape the future of motorcycling.

The questions are: Who will have a seat at the table? Those who support our freedoms? Or those who would regulate, restrict, and redefine the way we ride?

The challenges facing motorcyclists are not slowing down.

Issues involving:

- Internal combustion engines.

- Ethanol and fuel policies.
- Autonomous vehicle technology.
- Right-to-repair and modify.
- Road access.
- Profiling.
- Growing government regulation.

And every one of those issues continues to impact riders across America.

The people advancing those policies aren't taking a year off. They aren't skipping meetings. They aren't waiting for someone else to get involved. Neither can we.

For nearly four decades, the Motorcycle Riders Foundation has worked to ensure that motorcyclist voices are heard in Washington, D.C., and beyond.

Meeting of the Minds is where riders come together to prepare for the work ahead.

It is where ideas are exchanged. Strategies are developed. Relationships are built.

And activists return home better equipped to defend the freedoms we often take for granted.

The future of motorcycling won't be determined by the people who stayed home.

It will be shaped by the people who showed up.

Riders from across the nation gathered in Milwaukee.

They discussed the challenges, the solutions, and they'll prepare for the next fight.

Was your state among them?

Because protecting freedom begins with showing up.
