Library Catalog New Interface

Taking a bold step forward into the twenty-first century, the library soon will be unveiling its new Encore catalog, an enhancement that presents a “one-stop shopping” experience for library users. Encore has the ability to search the library catalog, the magazine and newspaper databases, and the e-books all at once to provide combined results. Similar to many of today’s online services, Encore suggests other subjects or titles. With immediate access to the library’s other databases, users—after logging into their library account—can see many journal and magazine summaries and full-text articles. Lastly, users can check out e-books directly from the catalog. For those not interested in searching the databases, there is an option to search only the catalog and, for users who prefer the basic library catalog, they can select to use it instead.
