

INDIANAPOLIS CHAPTER

Trench Warfare

INTERACTIVE IN-PERSON TRAINING WITH BRANDON STECKLER

Five Days a week, S.W.A.T. Training and Diagnostics sees some of the most challenging diagnostic cases from all over the globe. Faults ranging from A/C performance issues, programming and calibration concerns, ECU board-level failures, communication faults, and of course, driveability symptoms for diesels, gasoline port injection and GDI. To tackle these problems successfully and efficiently (from over 10,000 miles away) you had better believe we have a game plan for everything! But the real take-away, something that applies to each and every one of our challenging cases is the process.

Leveraging our knowledge of how components work (individually and together, as a system), having comfort in the operation of the tools we use, and developing a good sense of the vehicle we are challenged with, from service information sources, there is almost nothing that can't be diagnosed.

Join us in this journey across several diagnostic cases, right from our archives! Be there with us as we recreate the cases and the logical path taken to diagnose these evasive faults from around the world. Witness the "Battle Plan" being carried out over and over again, in a repeatable process that anyone can learn to do, with ease!
