BETTER A/C DIAGNOSTICS FOR TODAY'S VEHICLES

AUTEL

Modern A/C systems are no longer simple on/off components. From electronically controlled compressors to advanced thermal management systems, today's vehicles demand deeper insight to diagnose accurately and avoid comebacks.

The Autel MaxiHVAC AC909 is built to give you that clarity. It combines live system pressures, temperatures, and vehicle data into a single diagnostic workflow, so you can see what's happening across the entire A/C system at a glance.

What Sets the AC909 Apart

- Integrated HVAC and OBD data on one screen — View low- and high-side pressures alongside sensor data, blend door operation, and outlet temperatures for faster, more confident diagnostics.
- Guided, vehicle specific workflows — Step-by-step instructions include system specifications, component locations, compressor types, and refrigerant metering designs to reduce guesswork.
- Advanced leak and moisture detection — Uses nitrogen pressure testing and system tightness verification to identify refrigerant leaks and excessive moisture before recharging.
- Variable displacement compressor testing — Test compressors using OBD bidirectional controls or direct ECV connection while monitoring live pressures in real time.
- Decoupled manifold monitoring — Disconnect from A/C lines while continuing to monitor system pressures, improving workflow efficiency and safety.
- Built-in self-diagnostics — Verifies equipment accuracy, system tightness, and overall performance to support professional-level service.

Why It Matters This A/C Season

The AC909 is designed to help you diagnose faster, service more accurately, and complete complex A/C jobs with confidence as systems grow more advanced. It supports modern vehicles, hybrid platforms, and evolving thermal management designs without forcing you to rely on assumptions or incomplete readings.

SPECIAL A/C KIT EARNBACK

Customers purchasing the Autel AC909 will earn $20 back on each qualifying Carquest Premium A/C kit purchase for three months following their Autel purchase paid through a quarterly rebate. Customers must be in good credit standing to receive rebate.
