

University of Delaware School of Nursing Open Positions

Director of Doctor of Nursing Practice Program

The School of Nursing in the University of Delaware College of Health Sciences seeks an experienced and visionary individual to become the Director of our Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) program with an 11-month, non-tenure –track faculty appointment at the rank of associate or full professor.

Responsibilities include oversight and evaluation of the DNP program, including coordination of student recruitment, admission, and advisement, and working with the Clinical Coordinator to ensure optimal clinical learning experiences. The position also involves some teaching assignments. Qualifications include an earned doctorate in Nursing, certification as an advanced practice registered nurse practitioner in family practice, adult health-gerontology or psychiatric-mental health and at least 3 years' teaching experience in a DNP program. U.S. RN licensure with Delaware licensure eligibility is required and skill in on-line education is a plus.

Five, Open Rank Tenure Track & Non-Tenure-Track Faculty Positions

The School of Nursing in the University of Delaware College of Health Sciences seeks experienced, innovative and highly motivated individuals for 9-month, full time faculty members. Desired clinical areas of expertise include adult health, psychiatric-mental health nurse practitioner, pediatrics advanced practice, pediatrics or maternity/women's health. Eligibility for licensure as a registered nurse in Delaware required.

Tenure Track: PhD prepared individual with a research focus that aligns with our areas of research excellence and who possesses research training, a publication record, and experience in the grant funding process. Doctoral candidates who provide evidence of a beginning program of research will be considered. Undergraduate and graduate teaching experience preferred.

Continuing Non-Tenure Track: Individual with a PhD or DNP, with certification as an APRN highly desirable, and a record of successful teaching experience in postsecondary nursing programs preferred.
