

Justice Workshops

The week flows from individual to collective action/resistance/creation

Monday: Who Are We? - Lee, Julien, Bethany, Simon, Kenneth

Present ourselves and what we stand for individually and collectively. Our roles/archetypes/social change roles. Our values, our commitments and agreements

Tuesday: Why do we come together? Resistance and Resolution - Lee and Clare Sartori

Communities that have stopped war, stopped “evil”, stood up when something isn’t right. What adults and children have done. Kingian Nonviolence

How do we connect? How do we meet each other in love? How do we build together? Why do we come together?

Wednesday: When can we be strong and soft- Danielle

Rwandan Genocide told through the award-winning children’s book That Child Is Me, which is recommended reading on the United Nations website

How do we process grief/horror/anxiety. How do we move it through our bodies. How do we come together stronger. What creative outlets can we use to process hard things and create beauty from our experiences

Thursday: What can we do - Ami

Mutual Aid - how are we powerful together - short and long term planning for making our world a better place - create a visual of what we envision for our world

Friday: Community is Powerful

Planning for our community celebration. What do we want to present and share? What have we created together this week? What are we bringing to our community and how do we continue this work into the future?
