Dangerous Winter Weather Ahead

December 22, 2022
5:13 AM

Key Takeaways

- Dangerous wind chills today through Friday.
- Snow and blowing snow today, especially during morning hours
- Hazardous travel likely.

What Has Changed

Update

- No change to headlines
- Snow amounts stayed about the same

Official Snowfall Forecast

December 22, 2022
5:13 AM

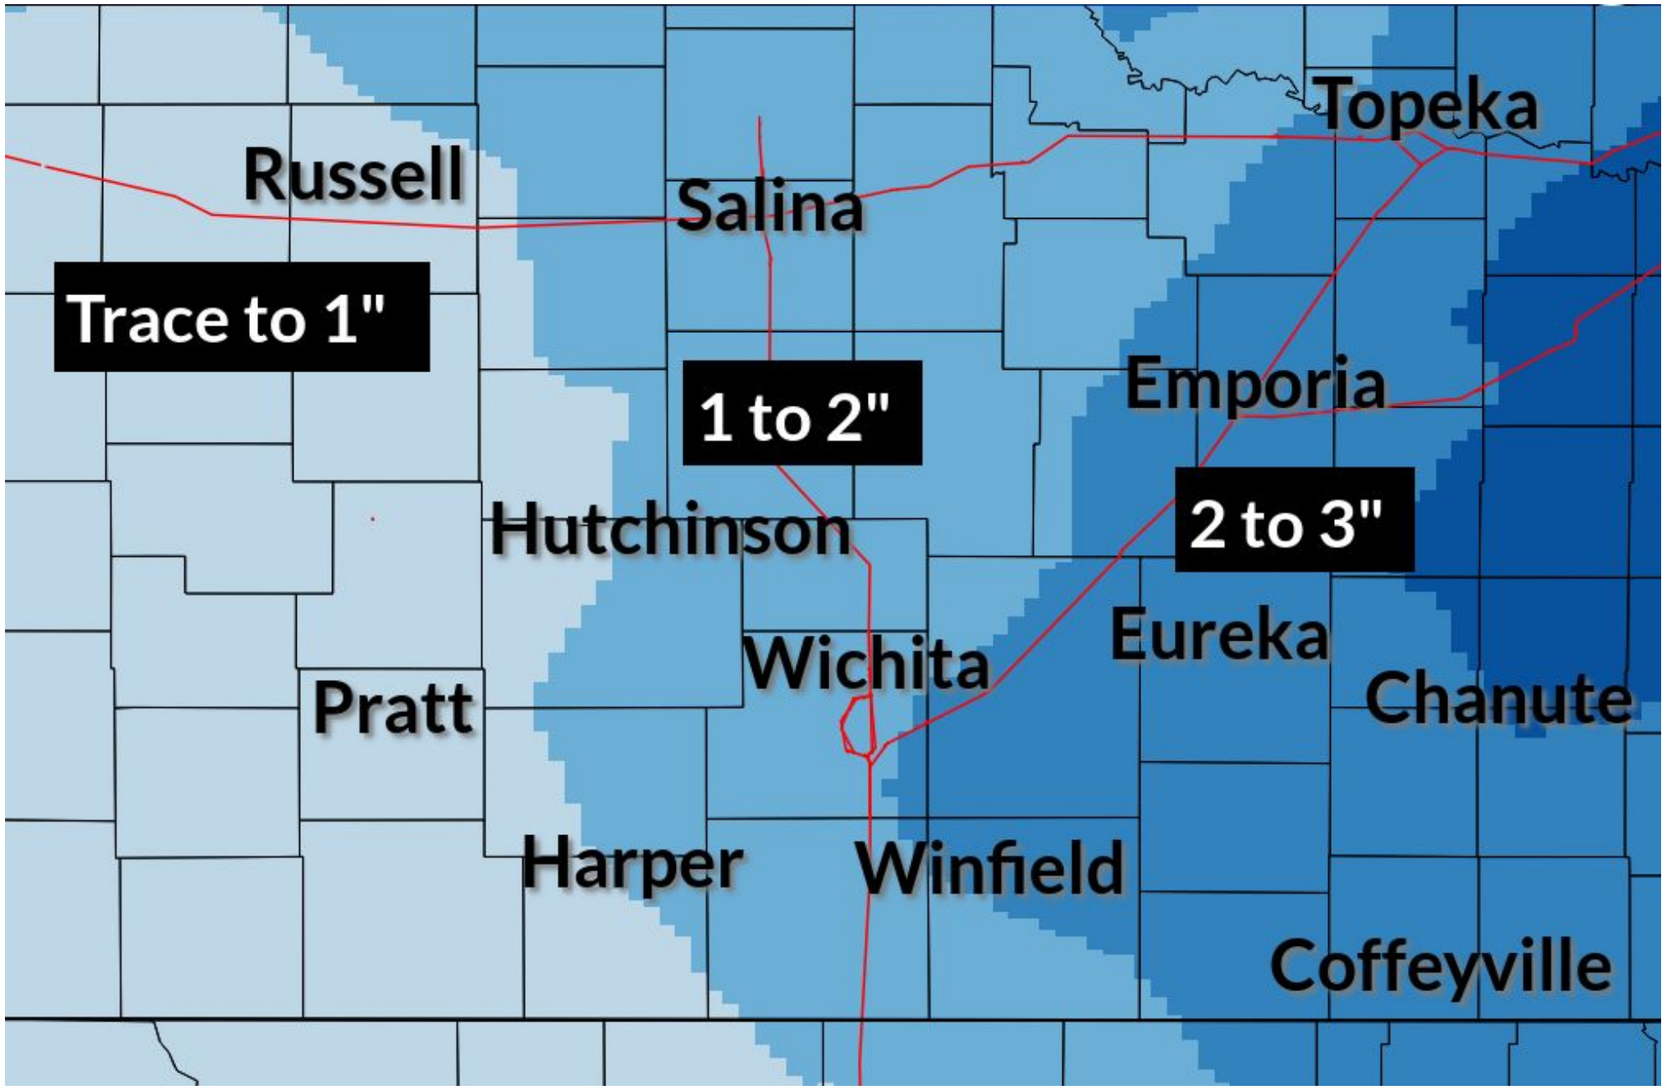

Snowfall ending early this afternoon

What

- Snow: Trace to 3 inches
- Winds: 25-35 mph with gusts to 50 mph
- Blowing snow causing visibility of less than a half mile

Actions

- Avoid travel if possible otherwise consider adjusting travel plans.
- If you must travel, check road conditions before heading out.
- Monitor the latest forecast for updates.

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration
U.S. Department of Commerce

National Weather Service
Wichita, KS

Timing

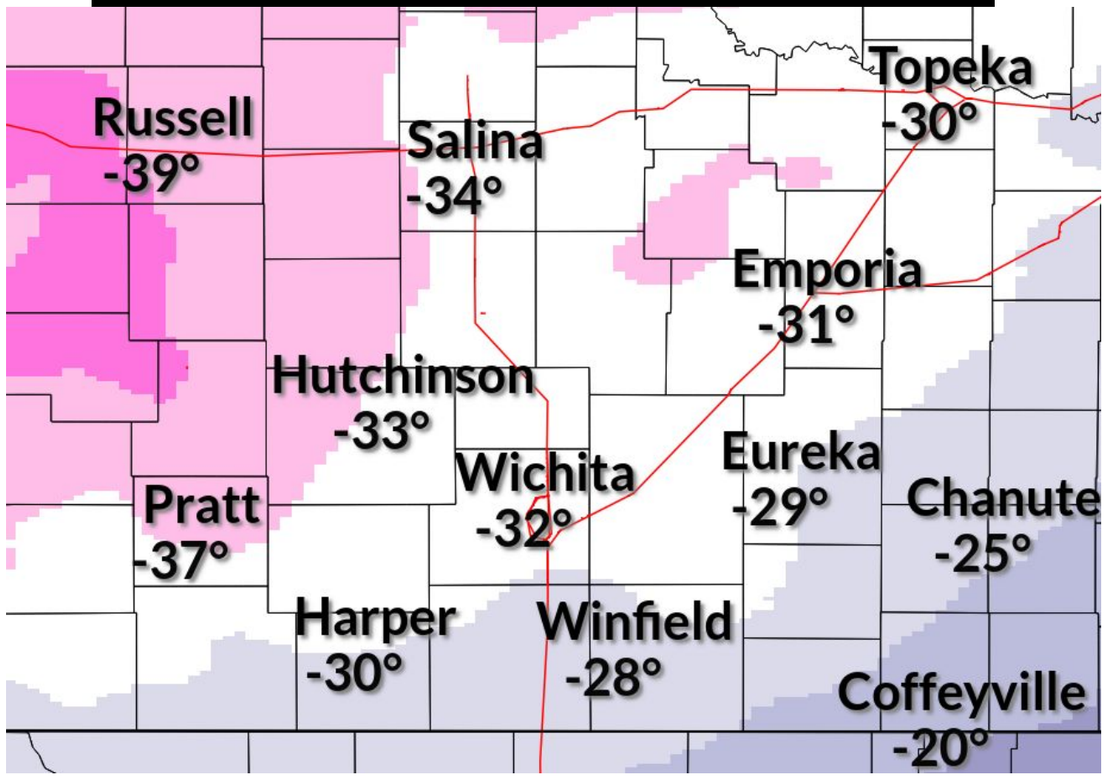

Timing of heavier snow band and visibility less than a 1 mile

- Hutchinson: 5 to 7 am
- Wichita: 6 to 8 am
- Arkansas City: 8 to 10 am
- Chanute: 8 to 10 am
- Coffeyville: 8 to 11 am

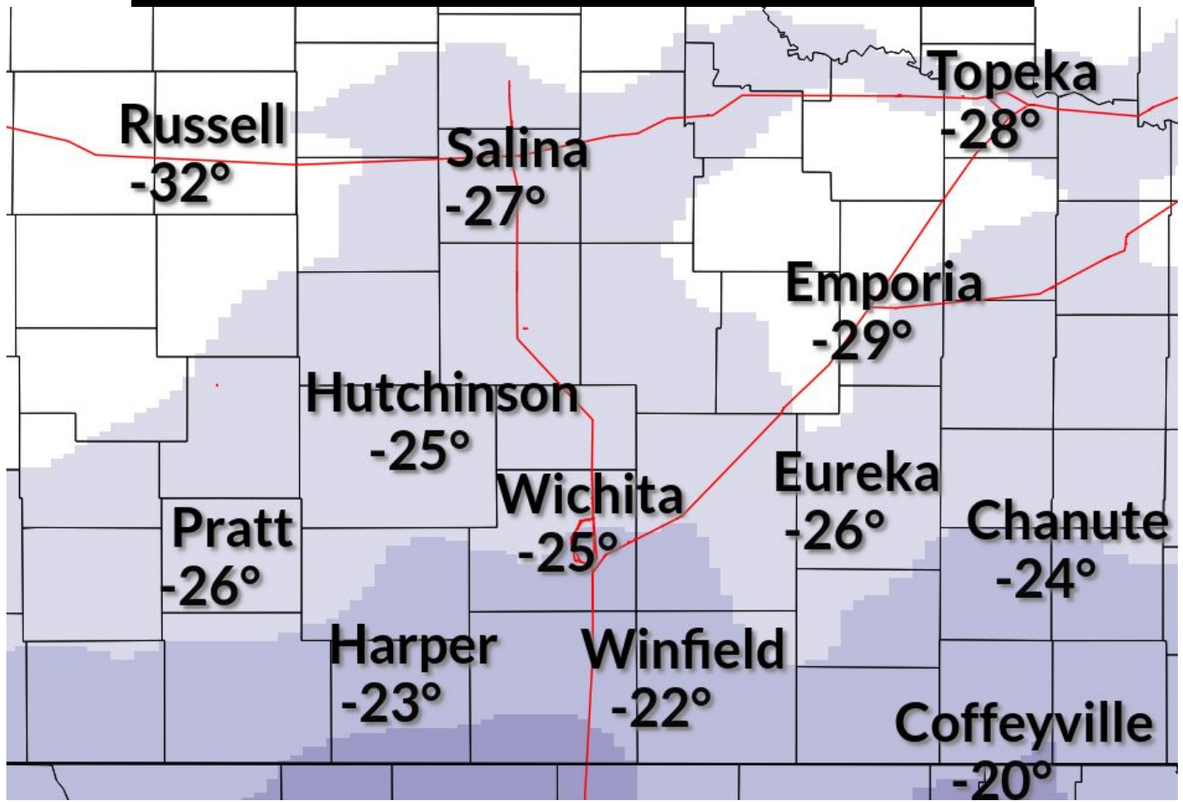

Dangerous Wind Chills today & Friday

December 22, 2022
5:13 AM

Today's lowest wind chills

Friday's lowest wind chills

Avoid any outdoor activity and if you need to be outdoors, be sure to cover any exposed skin

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration
U.S. Department of Commerce

National Weather Service
Wichita, KS

Confidence Levels

December 22, 2022
5:13 AM

Dangerous wind chills

Low	Medium	High

Confidence is very high that extreme wind chills will impact the area.

Snow amounts

Low	Medium	High

Confidence is average that snowfall amounts will be on the lower end.

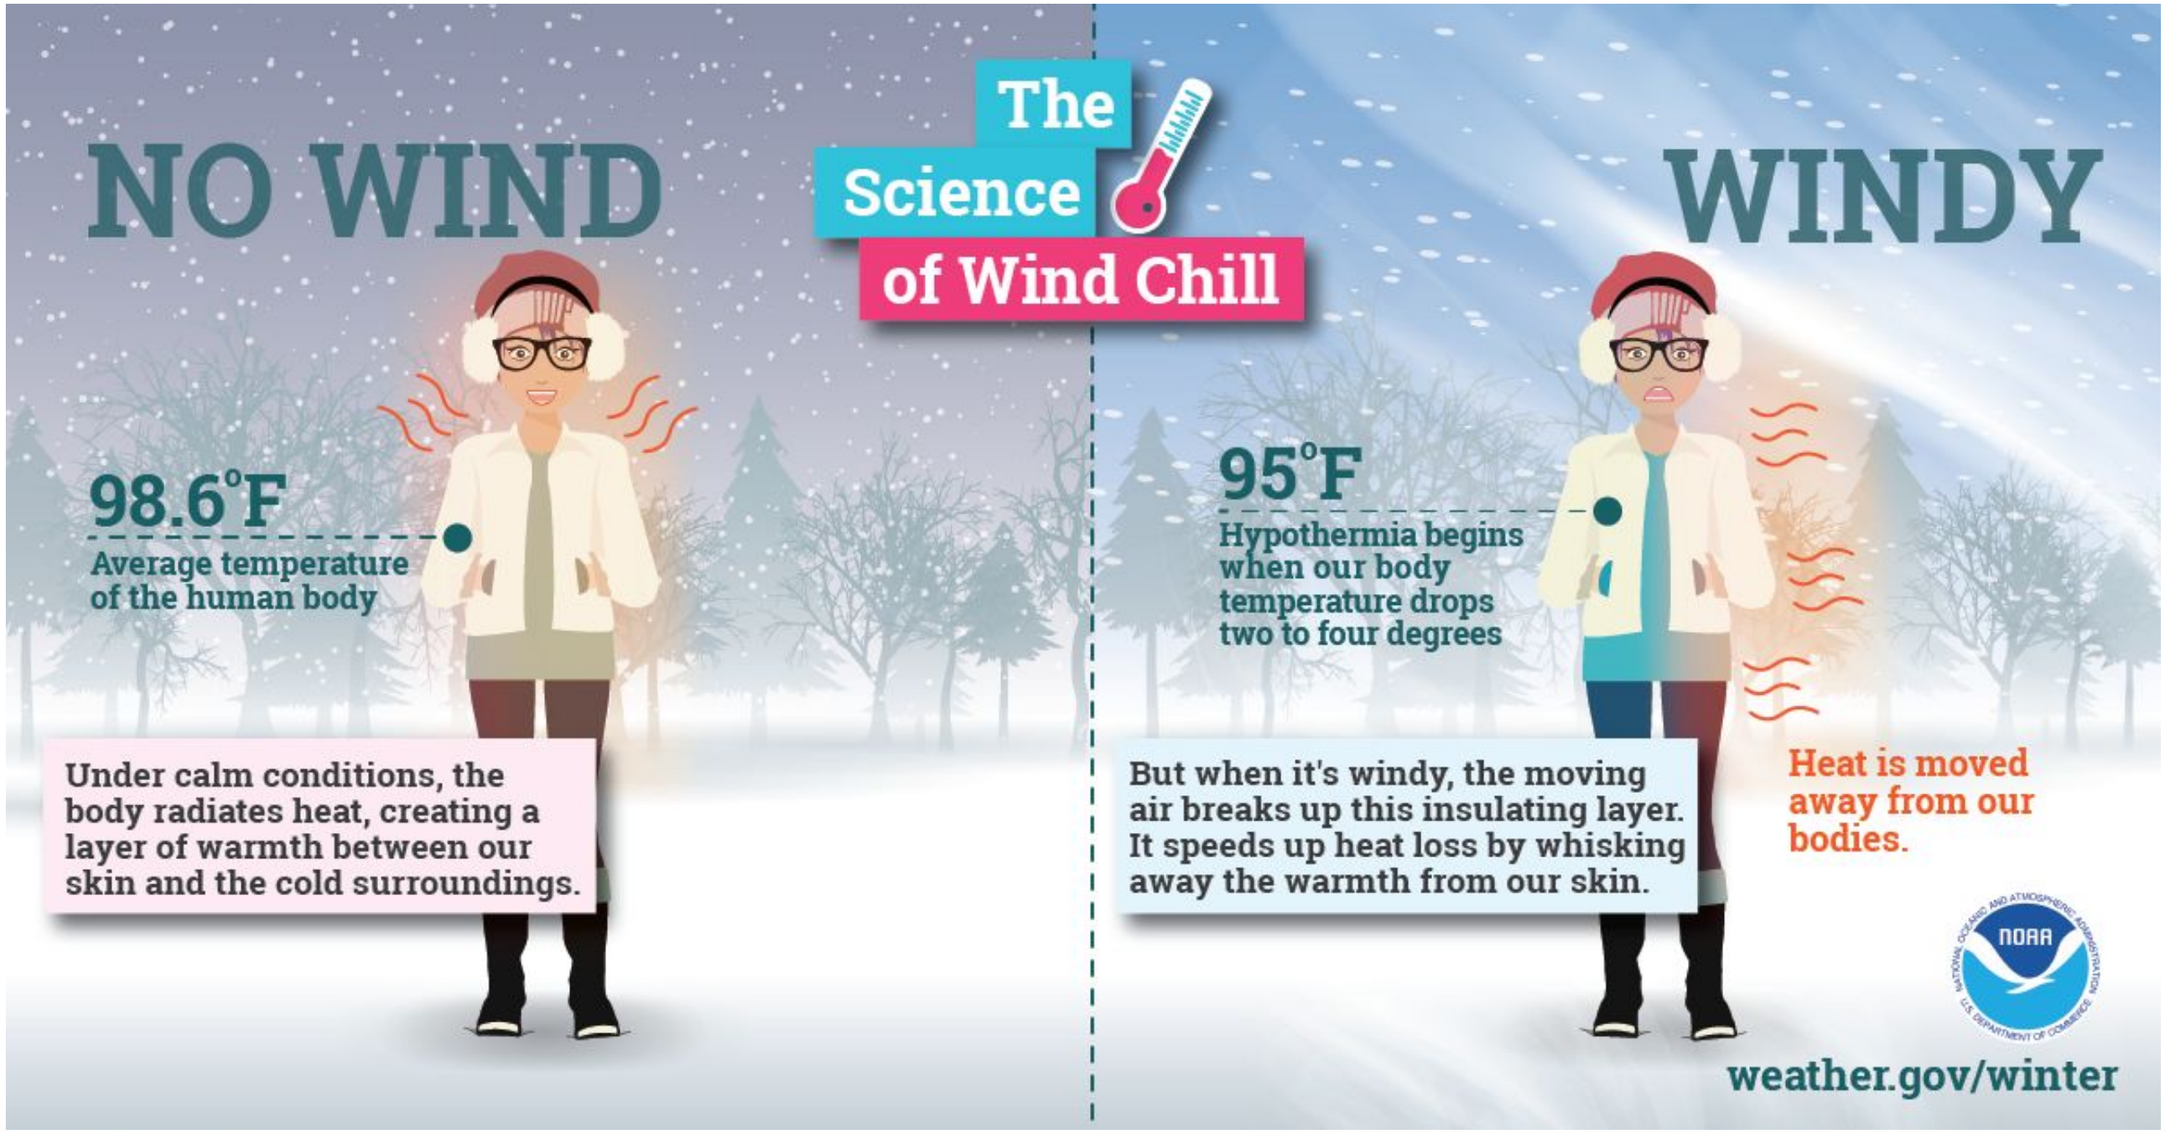

Timing of impacts

Low	Medium	High

Confidence with regards to timing is high. Impacts will start late Wednesday night.

Safety information

December 22, 2022
5:13 AM

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration
U.S. Department of Commerce

National Weather Service
Wichita, KS