זִכְרֹן צַדִּיקָם לְבָרָכָה

The memory of the righteous shall be for a blessing.

Proverbs 10:7

Judaism teaches that the act of remembering is itself a blessing. Thus, in the Jewish year, beyond the annual yartzheit (the anniversary of a loved one's death) there are four holidays which offer us a moment for Yizkor (a service of remembrance): Yom Kippur, Simchat Torah, Passover and Shavuot. On the eve of each of these holidays, we kindle a yizkor candle. Why? Because, as we remember, we bring to light the cherished qualities of loved ones, now long departed. As we remember, we feel their presence, the light and love that once surrounded us so closely.

This Book of Remembrance which you now hold in your hands, this Book of Names, is small but weighty. It holds so much: chapter upon chapter from the past, invoking treasured memories that bring a smile and others that prompt a twinge of regret, memories of laughter now grown silent. These names call to mind a hand we once held, a seat at the table, once full. We hold this book tightly as we strive to remember it all... lest these precious memories be lost.

This Book of Remembrance, this Book of Names, has wings. For the names of our loved ones speak not only of the past, they are a legacy that can fly to the future. Filled with both promise and prophecy. These names light a path to the future. As we read these names, we remember the righteousness of the ones we miss and strive to live as they would have wanted, lifting up the values and aspirations that gave meaning to their lives.

May we greet each new day with gratitude for those with whom we have shared life's path. May their memories inspire us to live with renewed purpose and joy as we embrace the possibilities of this New Year 5782.

May these names and these souls be bound up in the bonds of life and love everlasting.
