Greeting

✝ Call to Worship
by Rev. Paul Mitchell

We gather to worship, each stream feeding the growing chorus of creation.
Our voices rise, like babbling brooks, flowing falls, and roaring rivers.
In our daily courses, we encounter obstacles, divisions, and diversions.
Still, we are drawn toward the deep ocean of God’s unconditional love.
All creation is singing the glory of God.
Let us join the chorus.

✝ Hymn
Morning Has Broken

✝ Prayer
by Rev. Laura Baumgartner

God of the prophets and the people, we hear your voice, calling to us through the ages, as the sound of water reaches our ears through the forest. We long to be part of your time of peace and justice, part of the efforts to listen and preserve. We anticipate that hard choices are coming for us and for your people around the world, times when you present us with opportunities to provide sustainably for all rather than excessively for just a few. Strengthen us with your wisdom and courage. Help us turn toward you again and again, individually, as a community, and as a witness for what you make possible through the power of your way. Amen.

✝ The Peace of Christ

The Peace of Christ be with you. And also with you.

THE WORD

Prayer Before Reading
Becky Low

Holy God, as we quiet our hearts and minds and spirits to listen to your Word for us today, may we sense your Spirit’s presence with us here and anywhere we find ourselves in Creation. May we see your creativity and give thanks. May we listen to the ways you call us to be better stewards of what you’ve entrusted us. We pray this in Jesus’ name, Amen.
