

The Baroid IDP Mud School is Coming!

For the 54th year, Baroid Industrial Drilling Products announces its annual Customer Workshops, or Mud Schools, in early 2017.

There will be three sessions in January and February.

We kick off with the Water Well drilling workshop on January 16. This session will focus on the fundamentals of drilling fluid properties.

Horizontal Directional Drilling will be the focus in the following workshop beginning on the twenty third.

We will take a break the next week as the Super Bowl comes to Houston, then have a Spanish language session starting February 13, 2017 covering the basic drilling fluids used in the Water Well, Horizontal, Geothermal, and Minerals Exploration industries.

Space for the workshops is very limited and we are sorry that we cannot accommodate all who want to attend. If you are interested please contact your local Baroid IDP representative. The rep will submit an application form on your behalf.

On Wednesday, November 16, at 10 AM Houston time we will send an email or fax to all customers who have a form on file inviting them to accept our invitation to mud school.

Note that Wednesday's confirmation is the first step towards filling the seats for each workshop. Please make sure that you are ready to respond to our email/fax at 10 AM CST as we will be filling the available spaces on a first-come-first-served basis. We do not have the luxury of adding any classes this year if we have more yes responses than space allows.

We will send acceptance to mud school emails, or sorry you were not accepted emails, to attendees by Wednesday, November 23. We will keep a standby list to fill spaces if cancellations occur.

Good luck and we look forward to hearing from you!
