A POSTURE OF GRATITUDE

Paul's letter to the churches in Thessaloniki ends with an extended and beautiful blessing. This includes one of my favorite challenges: "Rejoice always, pray without ceasing, give thanks in all circumstances." What I love about this passage is that it flips gratitude on its head. It is natural for me to give thanks when times are good, when things are going my way. In my natural mode of thought, gratitude flows from good things. Paul's admonition to give thanks in all circumstances turns this around—good things can flow from gratitude. A posture of gratitude can be the fertile soil from which the good fruits of a spiritual life can grow. This is not a natural posture and this is why Paul's words matter so much.

I need to be reminded to be grateful in all circumstances. I need to be reminded that the life of faith is one of creating the ground for good things to grow. I need to be reminded that the life of faith is about believing in a future more full of hope that the evidence of my eyes would suggest. And this practice, of giving thanks, it is best practiced together, with people of good faith gathering to pray together. This year, as in years past, the Community of Congregations will gather on the Sunday before Thanksgiving to practice the radical art of giving thanks in all circumstances. We have gathered during times of great tumult and war, during seasons of want and worry. This year, we will host the service in our own Sanctuary, at First United Church. More detail on that will follow in our e-blasts, but save the date for that service!

The Alternative Christmas Store is Back!

The Alternative Christmas Store (ACS) is a First United tradition that invites us to live into Advent and our mission of "empowering people by changing structures." As we rebuild post pandemic we will have fewer items than previous years and will only offer items for three Sundays. Sale dates are December 4, 11, and 18.

ACS is an opportunity to purchase either locally made goods and fair trade products as an alternative to mass produced items. We will also offer a way to donate directly to some of our Faith in Action Mission Partners directly in someone's name. Proceeds from all sales also benefit our mission partners.

We are currently looking for a few enthusiastic people to help us with promoting the event, set up, and take down as well as general help on the days of the event. If anyone is particularly good at setting up spread sheets and inventory control – that would also be helpful. If you can help us with anyone of these tasks please contact Teri Omert at tomert@comcast.net. This is a great way to be involved with a joyful and significant church activity.

Save the Date: Blue Christmas

The holiday season is often referred to as the most joyful time of the year, but for many, this is a particularly difficult season because it can serve as a reminder of all the things and people we may have lost. Together we engage in lighting Advent candles in a new, symbolic way. All are invited. Come as you are.

From the Council Moderator

Church Council had two meetings during the month of October in preparation for the Annual Congregational Meeting that is happening on November 13. Please attend (if you can) to hear our recommendations for how the Church should proceed during this fiscal year, as well as to vote on our proposed ministry direction and budget.

Opening Devotions and Joys/Concerns

For our October 18 meeting, Dave Marshall led us in a servant leadership devotion inspired by a Martin Luther King sermon. Kathryn Heavey gave thanks for a Bryan Stevenson book. Tammy Meyer commended the Nursery School for completing its most recent National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) accreditation renewal application.

Capital Campaign Update

Our consultants Latz and Company presented an overview of the Campaign Planning Report, which included an overview of the case development process, a summary of the needs for a capital campaign, and a summary of the proposed case priorities. Latz also summarized the results of the prospect research on the estimated potential campaign commitments from the top 50 prospective donors. Lastly, Latz offered additional steps to consider including council case narrative review and prioritization, additional prospect/donor research, facilitated campaign goal setting, additional focus groups, congregational survey, and campaign implementation.

A discussion ensued where nearly every Council member provided feedback on the summary provided by Latz and asked clarifying questions.

Financial Report

Susan Macaulay presented the Long Form Budget for Fiscal Year 2023 for the Church as a first read of the budget to Council on October 18. The preliminary budget showed revenue and expenses of approximately $1.077MM and $1.088MM, respectively. The Finance Team worked with individual teams to review line items in this budget and adjusted expense numbers to present a final budget recommendation at the Special Council Meeting on October 24.

At the October 24 special Council meeting, the new budget showed expenses of $1.097MM, resulting in a deficit of just over $20,000. Council passed a motion unanimously to submit this final draft of the FY 2023 annual budget to the congregation for review and congregational approval at the annual meeting on November 13.

Ministry Outline

At the October 24 Special Council meeting, Council Leadership (Tim Dull as Clerk, John Edgerton as Lead Pastor, and me) presented a draft of the FY 2023 Ministry Outline to

Council members. As a reminder, the Ministry Outline identifies the Church's most significant goals and priorities in the coming year. It is a set of broad priorities around which the various components of the Church (pastors, staff, teams, task forces, and other groups) will unite to create plans and prepare tasks. It should also inspire and encourage us, so it can be a place for aspirational goals and creative thinking about how to achieve those goals.

The draft for this fiscal year's Ministry Outline maintained the three overarching priorities from FY 2022:

- Engage Fully the Church's Whole Community to Strengthen Congregants' Relationships with God and with Each Other
- Cultivate Ways of Working Together to Further the Church's Ministries
- Enhance the Church's Financial Resources

The new document goes into more specifics than in previous years about how each priority should be achieved to provide a clearer understanding of the goals across the entire Church. Council passed a motion unanimously to submit this final draft of the FY 2023 Ministry Outline to the congregation for review and congregational approval at the annual meeting on November 13.

Additional Reports

The October 18 meeting went very long, and we were unable to get to our reports from teams, staff, and the Moderator! I reminded Council members to contact Don Sibley to have their photos taken for posting on the bulletin board in the lounge. Many thanks to the several congregation members who have come up to me at the end of October remarking on the lack of posted photos; we are working on getting them up, so you have a visual reminder of who your Council members are!

November Peace Corner

November initiates the winter holidays with Thanksgiving. We have a mental image of Thanksgiving meals being idyllic, happy family times. Hopefully, this is usually the case for you and your family, but whether it's the upcoming election or something else entirely, there is always a chance of conflict and tension within the family.

Braver Angels, an organization that promotes conversation bridging the partisan divide, has recommended approaches for talking with others with whom one differs. The 4 techniques can be found in a story in Time magazine and are instructive with examples of ways to use each: <sup>1</sup> Clarify (or paraphrase); Agree (or Praise); Pivot; and Offer Perspective – Probe.

The webpage Verywellfamily suggests a way to exit a difficult conversation:<sup>2</sup>

Know How to Exit

It's common for people to end a heated discussion with a comment like, "We'll just have to agree to disagree." While this may seem fairly innocuous, it tends to discount the other person's viewpoint and leave them feeling unheard.

It's better to say, "You've given me something to think about. Let's talk about something else and come back to this at another time."

These differences are important, and so is maintaining family relationships. A tool useful for me is to remember Philippians 4:8:

Finally, brothers and sisters, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is just, whatever is pure, whatever is pleasing, whatever is commendable, if there is any excellence and if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things.

"if there is anything worthy of praise" – it might be the smallest thing I can think of that is positive about that person – focusing on that positive trait is helpful to me in calming my spirit and working to have peace in that relationship.

Fourth Sunday Offering: Beyond Hunger

The Covid pandemic has affected us all. Beyond Hunger, a First United Mission Partner, was buffeted with challenges that required solutions if Beyond Hunger was going to provide much-needed food to often-marginalized folk. Over the course of the pandemic, Beyond Hunger has continued to feed the hungry, work that we value as Christians. Meeting that need hasn't been simple. The need for food assistance spiraled upward during the pandemic. Beyond Hunger had to significantly change its operations, creating four unique ways to serve people safely: a popular drive-thru pantry, a scaled-down socially distant pantry inside the church, an off-site pop-up "Despensa" serving vulnerable immigrant families, and Home Delivery for older adults and people with disabilities.

Beyond Hunger lives out its core values by serving with dignity, focusing on the care of our neighbors – those who are being served, those who are volunteering, and those who support the organization. First United members are part of each of those groups. Your generosity in the fourth Sunday's offering will sustain Beyond Hunger so that they can support our neighbors and our friends now and well into the future.

Consider a Planned Gift

First United welcomes your legacy gift through your will or by listing the church as a beneficiary of your IRA, life insurance, or pension plan. When you make such a gift, please let the church know. We want to thank you and add you to our list of Kindred Spirits (those who have told us they have made a legacy gift).

The church is deeply grateful for these important gifts - in any amount. They help build our endowments and fund our ministry and mission now and for the future. Questions?
