HOST SITE APPLICATION

The African American Mayors Association Future Leaders Fellowship (FLF) Program is an eight-week, paid program which offers undergraduate students with an opportunity to learn and navigate the functions of local government. The program consists of a four-week extensive training at the AAMA Headquarters in Washington, D.C. followed by a deployment to the office of an AAMA member mayor for a hands on career building experience. We thank you for your interest in serving as a hosting site for an AAMA fellow!

Our commitment is to arrange the best possible placements for all of our interns. We take into account the students’ career goals, experiences, and preferences. As we go through the placement process in March, the AAMA team will review the preferences provided by prospective fellows and potential supervisors as we seek to make the optimal placement for all of the students.

Please know that submission of an application and participation in the interview process does not guarantee an intern will be placed at your site. Each year, a diverse group of students apply to our internship and fellowship opportunities and we will prioritize the interests of our applicants during the placement process. To apply to be a 2020 Future Leaders Fellowship (FLF) program Host Site, please submit the application below electronically to aama@ourmayors.org.
