

Manitoba Regional Report

Weather wise it has been a warm winter so far in Manitoba although with this warmer weather has also come some concerns about ice formation. Some courses were removing or debating whether to remove ice in November and once again we will see what spring brings for course conditions. COVID-19 restrictions continue to keep clubhouses closed throughout the province except for those that are serving take-out food. Many courses are still seeing lots of traffic as members/golfers use their facilities for walking, snowshoeing, or cross-country skiing. It seems even in the off season we continue to have high levels of traffic as people are looking for an activity that they can engage in safely.

The upcoming CGSA Virtual Conference is coming together so be sure to mark your calendars for this event. Like most educational offerings it will be different than what we have experienced in years past, but I am sure that the lineup will be strong and that everyone will get great value for their money. The lack of travel expenses makes it a great opportunity to engage more members of your team than would typically be able to attend the national conference so please keep that in mind as well.

Best of luck for the remainder of the winter and with turf conditions and startup in spring!

Respectfully,

Braydon Gilbert, AGS
CGSA Director Manitoba
