

Manitoba Report

After a bit of a slow start in Manitoba courses were getting open during the last week of April which is probably about a week later than usual for most. Overall it seems like everyone wintered pretty well which is certainly much needed after a couple of difficult growing seasons.

The MGSA has a strong lineup of monthly meetings this season including our premier event the Turfgrass Research Tournament which will be hosted by MGSA Past President Dave Linstead. We are looking forward to this event and to continuing to contribute to turfgrass research.

CGSA dues invoices will soon be sent out and this is a great time to help make a non CGSA member aware of the many benefits of membership. Whether it is the education and networking at one of the CGSA's great events like the The Canadian Golf Course Management Conference or Fall Field day or taking advantage of the savings offered through the Golfmax program there are many great reasons why CGSA membership can be a significant asset to yourself and your club.

Hopefully everyone has a successful start to their season and I look forward to seeing everyone at events throughout the year.

Braydon Gilbert, AGS
Manitoba Director