

In Celebration of 129 Years

“Every available seat in the City Hall was filled yesterday afternoon long before the hour was fixed for the opening ceremonies of presenting flags to the pupils of the public schools...whose duty it will hereafter be to care for the flags entrusted to their charge. The flags shall be handed down hereafter from one generation to another to remind us of the priceless heritage which we possess.”

Rochester Evening Times
February 23, 1889

On that day in 1889, a group of Civil War veterans from the George H. Thomas Post, No. 4, Grand Army of the Republic, marched to City Hall where each veteran presented a new flag to one student representative from each of Rochester's 32 public schools. These student representatives, called Standard Bearers, were chosen for their outstanding academic achievement and demonstrated citizenship. This, the first Transfer of Flags ceremony, was proposed by Captain Henry Lomb.

Henry Lomb, who along with John Jacob Bausch founded the Rochester-based firm Bausch & Lomb, was a German immigrant who loved his adopted country and its flag. He was one of the first New York State residents to enlist in the Union Army during the Civil War. He rose to the rank of Captain and fought in many of the major battles, including Fredericksburg, Antietam and the “Battle of Bull Run.”

Captain Lomb believed that some visible recognition should be paid to the Standard Bearers of our flag; thus began the tradition of Bausch & Lomb's presentation of a bronze medallion to each Standard Bearer. In fact, Captain Lomb himself presented the medals until his death in 1908.

Today we gather to celebrate the 129th Transfer of Flags Ceremony, which is the oldest surviving tradition in the Rochester City School District.

THE CHARGE TO THE STANDARD BEARERS

Our flag represents a unified community of nationalities and races: people who have freely decided to bond together under one name, the United States of America, and under one power, God, as He is the ultimate power. This cloth, covered with red and white stripes and stars dotting a blue field, salutes our people: a people trying to create a society of freedom for all individuals, struggling to realize our beliefs and goals.

Today, we give honor to this flag by entrusting it to these very deserving students, the young men and women having the highest academic achievement in the schools they represent.

Yours is a sacred trust, handed down to you by others. Your responsibilities are the same as those outlined at the first presentation of flags ceremony held in 1889 at the Rochester City Hall. Guard the safety and dignity of our flag, and remember that this flag, under which we serve, is the emblem of our unity, our power, our thought and purpose as a nation.
