

We hear a lot about the environment, climate change, and ecology these days. The United Nations recently released a study finding that about one million species are in danger of extinction within our lifetime. The earth's temperature is warming, and dire predictions are being made. Is there hope? Is there anything we can do? What is the church's role around the issue of the environment?

This year we will dig into these questions in an Adult Vacation Bible School class being held with our sisters and brothers of Immanuel Lutheran Church in Webster, Monday, July 29 through Thursday, August 1st from 7:00 – 8:30 pm at Immanuel Lutheran, 131 W. Main St., Webster.

God created the earth in love and grace, and set us as caretakers for a wondrous, diverse, complex creation. We will learn how the church can be a voice for the environment, how we can make changes that will impact climate change and bring hope as God's hands working for the good of all.

Mark your calendars now for this exciting and provocative week! Both Pastors Doug and Joanne will be leading us in this journey.
