Session details:

For over thirty years Kelly Harris has applied methods from his technical R&D background to the art of machine polishing – testing, developing, and creating a bank of knowledge that has made him a recognised industry leader with pupils, fans and followers all around the world.

For one day only, this December he will be revealing his most advanced polishing secrets and methods, explaining and demonstrating them alongside detailed theory, while going on to debunk some of the industry's widest-believed myths in a jam-packed advanced training session that will blow your mind.

The session will consist of a mixture of tuition, demonstrations, hands-on testing / experimentation, and Q&A. All materials will be provided including individual workstations (however entrants are welcome to bring their own polishing equipment if preferred). Lunch, light refreshments and swag all included.

IMPORTANT: please note, due to the advanced nature of the course, entry to this event is limited to detailing professionals currently working in the industry. Proof of eligibility will be required.
