A GENTLEMAN IN MOSCOW

by

Amor Towles

In 1922, the Bolsheviks find Count Alexander Rostov guilty of being an unrepentant aristocrat and sentence him to house arrest in the Metropol, a grand hotel across the street from the Kremlin. Rostov is well educated in the arts and literature, but is self-absorbed and used to luxury. He now must leave his suite in the hotel and live in an attic room. As years pass and Rostov witnesses some of the most tumultuous events in Russian history, he grows as a person. He becomes friends with some of the staff, entertains those from his past life, and agrees to help a young friend, Nina, when she asks him to take care of her five-year-old daughter until she returns. As the publisher writes, he gains “a deeper understanding of what it means to be a man of purpose.”
