LOCAL LAW OFFICES PARTNER AS LAIRD LAW FIRM

Mason City, Iowa - Heiny, McManigal, Duffy, Stambaugh & Anderson of Mason City, Iowa will be opening an office at the former offices of Berry Law in Clear Lake, Iowa. As part of the expansion, Matt Berry will be joining the firm and continue to practice full-time. The firm will operate at both locations under its former name, Laird Law Firm, beginning January 1, 2021.

“The addition of Matt and his team begin an exciting new chapter for our firm,” Jerry Stambaugh said. “We believe the Clear Lake location will offer additional convenience for our clients and continued growth opportunities for our office. Returning to Laird Law Firm ensures that we stay connected with our past while making significant changes for the future.”

“After years of solo operation in Clear Lake, I look forward to the partnership with the Laird Law Firm. Together, we offer a spectrum of legal services, experienced professionals, and strong relationships across North Iowa,” Matt Berry said.

Heiny, McManigal, Duffy, Stambaugh & Anderson was established in 1938 and was previously known for decades as the Laird Law Firm, the name it now returns to use. Berry Law opened in 1981. Laird Law Firm will offer at both locations the same broad scope of services for which it has previously been known, including personal injury, worker’s compensation, litigation and appellate advocacy, estate planning and administration, business planning, real estate, and family law.
