Surface Transportation Security Initiatives

The Transportation Security Administration's primary focus in surface transportation is oversight, cooperation and regulation for transportation operators. TSA works collaboratively with Over-The Road-Bus (OTRB) motor coach operators to ensure appropriate security postures are employed. This presentation will highlight resources that are available to supplement security efforts. In addition, a review of a recently released federal rule regarding security training for employees, designation of security coordinators and the reporting of significant security concerns will be provided. An intelligence briefing focused on security threats relevant to the Motor Coach will be included.
