

Be a positive role model and set an example when it comes to your child's understanding of alcohol.

When parents have a healthy relationship with alcohol, they are showing their children how to do the same.

