

IFSC Newsletter January 2020 COMMITTEE SPOTLIGHT

Education Committee Sees Room For Growth

The IFSC sure was busy in 2019. For all the work we have done, there is still a need to continue and expand upon our work.

A look ahead at 2020 offers us a blank slate and renewed time to develop member and stakeholder ideas that were recently brainstormed at our Fall Forum. We look forward to continued progress to advance diversion and composting of organics.

Fortunately, Illinois continues to inch closer to solid action related to food scrap market development, policy, advocacy, and programs. Education related to advancing this work ties into every committee of the IFSC! In 2020, the Education Committee will continue to support initiatives, improve services and expand marketability of finished compost.

The Education Committee is reaching out to all the IFSC committee chairs and board members for feedback on our new website. We are also conducting a survey to get a pulse for how the Education Committee can support all of our committees. From providing best practices for statewide composters to educating about backyard composting on the residential level, the Education Committee looks forward to a productive year of engagement ahead.

Please consider supporting the IFSC Education Committee

- join our team for our monthly calls
- email resources for us to share on our website
- invite others to share their resources

Education Committee meetings: second Thursday of each month @12:00 – 1:00 pm, via conference call.

For more information, contact Committee Chair Jen Nelson at jennifer@sevengenerationsahead.org.

Sevengenerationsahead.org

Food Land Opportunity

Created by Seven Generations Ahead
Funded through the Roots Project at The Chicago Community Trust,
Rocky Mountain Institute and The Chicago Community Trust.