3rd Meal Question

Looking through a rack of CD's at a music store, Shimon came across an album entitled "Tefillos of Shabbos Kodesh.": From the outside, it seemed to be a regular studio recording of chazanus, in which songs from Shabbos davening are sung and recorded during the week. However, when Shimon took it home and played it, he was surprised to hear that Hashem's Names were sung as they are during davening, and that the congregation could be heard in the background answering Amen.

He did some research and discovered that indeed, it was a "live album" of Friday night davening, from a shul that had accepted Shabbos early. The person who recorded it had not yet accepted Shabbos, so he decided to record it and make some money off a rare live Shabbos recording of this famous chazan.

Is it permitted to listen to this album, or would this be considered benefitting from Shabbos desecration?

What is the answer? Find out at Shalosh Seuda with Rabbi Rothman
