A sauna is a valuable investment in your health and well-being—so you want to be sure you’re making a good choice.

- Shopping for an infrared sauna can be confusing. We have researched countless saunas for 15 years, with many exhibiting at our events and feedback from our certified practitioners over the years. Do not be lured by low price or marketing gimmicks— Your health is at risk with use of a sauna made with toxic materials .Look for a USA made source.
- You should be sure to only own a well-made, low-radiation, safe, and therapeutic infrared sauna. Sunlighten Saunas are made in the USA- and pass all the rigorous safety and environmental standards. They are there to guide our patients and support practitioners.
- Whether you want to sleep better, lose weight passively, decrease your disease risk—or simply have an easy way to feel good every day...owning an infrared sauna might be the best decision you make all year.

Finding the right sauna is vital - the wrong ones can mean...

- EMFs: Low-quality saunas that could start a fire in your home or expose you to harmful EMF radiation are a BIG problem in the infrared sauna industry.
- Toxins: You also don’t want a sauna made of treated wood that off-gasses chemicals when you heat it, or one that could harbor mold or have glues or metal pieces.
- A waste of time. Many saunas don’t get to a therapeutic heat, even when maxed out!

- You should only need 15 min in your sauna for best benefit.
