As a freelance financial analyst, I typically work from home to recommend portfolios and individual investments, evaluate historical and current financial data, and study business and economic trends. Other duties and responsibilities may include determining a company's value by examining its financial statements, assessing the management team's strength, and preparing written reports or a contract for services. My work with an organization or an individual account to help my client or a business to make better financial decisions. You can work in a variety of industries, such as major corporations, finance companies, banks, securities firms, and insurance companies.
