

HULL LIFESAVING MUSEUM

SAVING LIVES THEN. CHANGING LIVES NOW.

Step Back in Time at the Staircase Gallery: Beach Days and Bathing Suits: Fashion on Nantasket Beach

The Hull Lifesaving Museum invites you to dive into summer nostalgia with our newest exhibit in the Staircase Gallery: Beach Days and Bathing Suits: Fashion on Nantasket Beach. This whimsical and eye-catching display features actual vintage bathing suits and a curated collection of classic Nantasket Beach posters that once lured beachgoers to our iconic shoreline. And each one is available for purchase!

From woolen swimwear of the early 1900s to the bold prints of the 1960s, these pieces tell the story of changing fashions, social norms, and seaside fun. The exhibit offers a glimpse into the glamorous—and sometimes comical—evolution of beach attire, while celebrating the long-standing allure of Nantasket Beach as a summer destination.

Whether you're a history buff, a fashion fan, or simply feeling nostalgic for summer's past, this exhibit is sure to make you smile. Snap a selfie by your favorite poster, marvel at the craftsmanship of old swimwear, and reflect on how much (or how little!) has changed.

Visit us this summer and let Beach Days and Bathing Suits: Fashion on Nantasket Beach remind you that the beach never goes out of style. Come take a look—and maybe take one home.
