RACINE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

In 1932, 86 years ago, the Racine Symphony Orchestra was founded in the depths of the Great Depression. Community leaders, musicians and patrons rallied to create an ensemble so that great music could be experienced in our own hometown. It is rare for orchestras to reach this age, but with longevity, we have not become complacent. My artistic vision is to build on our foundation of quality programming so that the next generation can hear the glorious musical masterworks from classics to pops. What a legacy we have been accorded by those who could never have imagined life in the 21st century. As different as the world is now, a common element in our shared experience is our love of great music. Continuing this tradition is a great privilege and with it, a great responsibility. I am grateful for all our donors who have helped sustain this Orchestra, in good times and bad. As we celebrate this milestone, we look forward to the future. Your support helps ensure that the music will go on and on.

ENRICH

"Racine is extraordinarily fortunate in being able to enjoy an orchestra the caliber of the Racine Symphony. With authority and attention to musical detail, the director, Maestro Laurino has melded and shaped the orchestra's players into a cohesive musical unit deserving of high praise. Additionally, he easily engages the audience with his commentary. The Racine Symphony Orchestra is passionate in its deep commitment to enhancing the musical culture of Southeastern Wisconsin. We would do well to invest ourselves in their continued success."

"At a time when the arts are under assault for being irrelevant, there could not be a greater need for music to help still the mind and nourish the soul. There is a reason why it is called 'classical music' – it transcends the generations."

EDUCATE

"Being able to work and perform with an orchestra was an absolutely amazing experience, and I'm so glad that I was able to do it with a talented group like the Racine Symphony. I learned so much from working with Maestro Laurino and members of the orchestra, who were all extremely friendly and supportive. I'm incredibly thankful that they gave me the opportunity to do this."

*Matthew Udry
2017 Young Artist Competition Winner*

"Performing with RSO in the side-by-side concert was one of the greatest opportunities I've had. The repertoire was challenging, and the rehearsals even more challenging. Being able to perform on stage with a professional orchestra is an experience I will not soon forget."
