Learn how to file for your Alternative Fuel Tax Credit

The Inflation Reduction Act of 2022 has extended the alternative fuel tax credit (AFTC) for propane through December 31, 2024.

Chairwoman of the Lone Star Clean Fuels Alliance will walk eligible parties through how to claim the credit. Learn from some Texas fleets as they share how public agencies, private fleets, and forklift operators claim the credit.

If you own propane vehicles or forklifts and fuel at your refueling site, you are eligible to claim the federal tax credit. This includes public fleets, non-profits, and private companies. You do not need to pay taxes to claim the credit.

Hear how Texas-based Fashion Glass, which operates both propane vehicles and forklifts, claimed $79,000 for 2018-2020.
