Now, more than ever, Unitarian Universalists need to understand how the oppressive system of white supremacy affects our congregational life, organizational leadership, and social justice activities. Each of us must examine our complicity in a system that is designed to marginalize black people, indigenous people, and people of color.

Have you been wondering how you could learn more about racism, but didn't know where to look?

We're pleased to announce that UU Animal Ministry has arranged for Dr. Breeze Harper of Critical Diversity Solutions to present a two-hour webinar with space for 40 participants. The webinar will:

- Articulate how systemic racism and normative whiteness operate within animal rights.
- Explain how the consequences and impact of the above issues affect and influence animal rights.
- Propose introductory actionable steps for UUAM to implement anti-racism and engender better critical race literacy into our values, goals, and decision-making processes.

Register for this free webinar by sending an email message to Roland Halpern, UUAM Project Coordinator, at RolandUUAM@outlook.com with "Webinar" in the subject line. Please provide your name, the name of your UU congregation and/or UUAM chapter (if applicable), your email address, and your postal mailing address.
