

Al Alper is Founder and CEO of Absolute Logic, a Cybersecurity, Compliance, & Technology/IT services company providing best-in-class solutions to businesses of all sizes for more than 30 years. He is a serial entrepreneur, having founded several successful companies where he saw exits through acquisitions by companies such as CIT; Absolute Logic is his 5th venture.

Al is widely considered an expert on security and compliance for financial service firms. He is passionate about technology, security, and compliance, evangelizing that, rather than a cost-center, technology, when designed and implemented properly, and considering the needs and constraints of the business and regulatory landscape, can drive increased productivity and net profits. Mr. Alper can be found proselytizing about technology's role as a driver of efficiency and profit to international CEOs at NASDAQ, today and tomorrow's business leaders at Harvard Business School and MIT, and in myriad boardrooms around the country and in other countries.

That passion led him to be the first to create a comprehensive solution for Mortgage Borkers and financial services firms who found themselves obligated to comply with regulations that demand a deep understanding of cybersecurity and technology. And it continues to drive Al and the Absolute Logic team to lead the industry in security, compliance and technology solutions and services.

Al is a nationally recognized and highly sought-after speaker on cybersecurity, technology, and compliance. He is also an Amazon best-selling author. His Revealed! book series uses plain English—rather than technical jargon—to help business owners understand and choose technology and security services. The series advances his personal mission to protect businesses from predatory providers and those that lack an understanding of the broader technical, regulatory, and threat landscapes. His goal is to help organizations that depend on these providers for guidance make better-informed decisions.

Al spends his time between CT, where he and wife, Janice, raised three children, Kaitlin, AJ and Alexandra, and SC. In his spare time, he volunteers on several local community Boards and Commissions, and many non-profits. He enjoys a myriad of sports including track and club cross racing, skiing, boating, racquetball and more.
